Five Persons Are Hurt In Four Auto Crashes

Neck Fractured When Car Turns Over In Ditch On Dana Point Highway

Man's Back Broken As His Truck and Auto Collide On Road at San Clemente

FOUR MEN and one woman were injured, the latter perhaps fatally, in four different automobile accidents which occurred in different places and at different times in the county during the past 24 hours, according to reports received here today.

H. H. Sanford, A. D. Matson, both of San Diego, were injured when the truck in which they were riding, loaded with apples, collided with an automobile occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McElroy and their daughter, Helen, of Los Angeles. The accident happened yesterday about 5 p. m. on the San Diego state highway, near San Clemente. The truck was going toward San Diego and the McElroy machine was traveling north when the mishap occurred. They were taken to San Clemente hospital.

Sanford sustained severe injuries, including a broken back, while Matson received bad cuts and bruises. Mr. and Mrs. McElroy escaped injury, but their daughter, Helen, was cut and bruised. According to reports, McElroy, driving behind two cars, attempted to pass when his way was blocked by the oncoming truck. McElroy was questioned by the San Clemente authorities.

Injuries that may prove fatal, including a fractured neck, broken jaw, and cuts and bruises, were sustained by Mrs. Joe Monroe, 20, of San Diego, as a result of an automobile accident late last night on the coast highway near Dana Point. The injured woman was riding with two sailors, Harold Eckert and David Parva, stationed at San Diego, who, however, escaped injury when the car in which they were riding became unmanageable and ran into a ditch, turning over as it left the road.

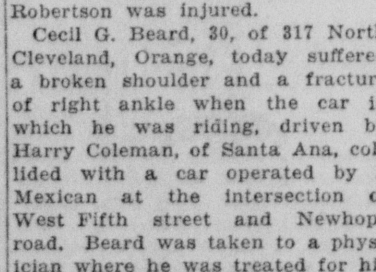

J. A. Williams, 62, of 617 Eastwood, was rushed to the Orange County hospital as a result of an automobile smashup today at the intersection of North Main and Seventeenth streets, involving three cars. Williams, who suffered cuts and bruises, was driving a touring car, which collided with a sedan driven by Mrs. G. S. Warner, Route 7, Box 99, Santa Ana, and then mixed with a sedan, driven by Fred Robertson, 1419 North Ross street. Neither Mrs. Warner nor Robertson was injured.

Cecil G. Beard, 39, of 317 North Cleveland, Orange, today suffered a broken shoulder and a fracture of right ankle when the car in which he was riding, driven by Harry Coleman, of Santa Ana, collided with a car operated by a Mexican at the intersection of West Fifth street and Newhope road. Beard was taken to a physician where he was treated for his injuries.

MISSIONARY HELD BY BANDITS FREE

PEIPING, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Miss Bergliot Evenson of Seattle, a missionary of the Lutheran united mission, who was held by bandits for $400,000 ransom, has been released, the American legation was informed today.

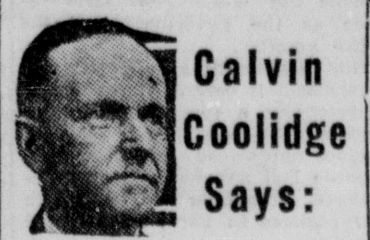

Legation officials added no details to the announcement.

Miss Evenson was captured in Loosan, province of Honan, on October 17. She was accompanied by Christopher Tvedt, a Norwegian employee of the mission who is still held by the bandits.

Miss Evenson's captors were identified here as the same Communist band who are holding Bert Nelson of Minneapolis, for a ransom of $300,000. Their terms for his release were signed "The First Red Army."

ORANGE COUNTY SCOUT EVENT DRAWS 600 PERSONS TO PARK

Calvin Coolidge Says:

By CALVIN COOLIDGE

Former President of United States
NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 25.—Not only the interest of the students themselves but that of the general public in the college sports, of which football is easily the chief, indicates a very wholesome national development. Such sports should be kept purely amateur. That is the main attraction that they hold. Very few would care to see a contest between hired champions of different educational institutions.

Of course a college is primarily to educate the head, rather than the legs, but young people require a physical activity that cannot be repressed without mental injury.

Dr. Edward Hitchcock was fond of telling us at Amherst that Horace Greely said college boys were horned cattle. That is a typical newspaper attitude which reports public disorders and is silent concerning the serious work of the classroom. Yet the mental and physical sides must develop together.

The danger lies in mistaking the means for the end. Games are not merely to capture championships, but to develop minds and bodies. They should be played with every effort to win but the result may be just as good to the college students if the team loses. It is not the score but the training and playing for all you are worth that counts.

ROYAL LOVERS OF ITALY AND BULGARIA WED

Second Ceremony Required By Difference In Religion

BY THOMAS B. MORGAN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SSISI, Italy, Oct. 25.—The royal families of Italy and Bulgaria, were united today when Princess Giovanna of Savoy became the bride of King Boris III of the house of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha.

The wedding ceremony occurred before the main altar of the upper basilica of St. Francis. The service was performed by Father Antonio Risso in the presence of members of both royal families.

Franciscan simplicity was observed within the church at the wish of the princess, a devoted disciple of St. Francis of Assisi, but a display of regal grandeur was witnessed in the town when the royal wedding party traversed a two mile route from the railway station to the church, guarded by troops and proceeded by communal valets in ancient costume.

Scarface Is Undisputed Gang Leader

Chicago Police Admit Al Capone Controls Underworld

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(UP)—A fugitive himself, never daring to leave his stronghold unless under heavy gangster guard, unable, even, to visit his home, Scarface Al Capone was recognized by police today as absolute ruler of the Chicago underworld.

With Joe Aiello and Jack Zuta both slain and their once powerful gangster ally, George "Bugs" Moran, dodging from hiding place to hiding place in fear of his life, officials believed Capone was nearing realization of his Napoleonic dream to extend his power through the city, perhaps the nation.

Although they hold no hopes that the Aiello slaying of Thursday night would be solved any quicker than that of O'Banion or any of his successors, police continued their investigations today, directing their search for Pasquale Prestigiacomo, better known as Patsy Presto, and for several Capone gangsters known to be expert machine gunners.

Aiello, stepping from Presto's home, where he had been hiding for two weeks, was literally riddled with machine gun bullets. Recalling the long enmity between Capone and Aiello, whose gang power was said to extend through the country, officers concluded immediately it was "another Capone job."

BELIEVE FILIPINO IS DOOMED TO DIE

FRESNO, Calif., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Tresco Lacang, Filipino ranch worker, today appeared doomed to hang at San Quentin prison.

A jury here late yesterday took just 29 minutes to decide Lacang was guilty of first-degree murder when he stabbed to death last July the young white wife he suspected of infidelity. The verdict makes mandatory the death sentence.

The jury was believed to have set a record for brevity of deliberation in California in returning a guilty verdict in a first degree murder case.

Superior Judge T. R. Thomson announced Lacang will face the same jury Monday on a trial for his sanity. The trial is expected to last less than one day.

Lacang went to trial last Wednesday.

CHURCH GROUP URGES SUPPORT OF DRY CAUSE

Commends Stand of Newspaper For Enforcement Candidate

THE FRIENDLY CIRCLE Sunday school class of the First Methodist church, of which E. Beamer is president, has passed a resolution urging support for dry candidates in county and state elections and stressing the necessity of electing men pledged to a law enforcement program, it was revealed today. The resolution also commended The Register and J. F. Burke for its stand on this question and for editorials supporting the candidacy of Milton K. Young, Democratic aspirant for governor.

The resolution follows: "Believing that the best interests of the city, county and state can be served at the November 4th election by voting for those candidates (regardless of their party affiliations or on which ticket their names may appear) who have openly and publicly espoused the cause of prohibition and the strict observance and obedience of all laws as written in the Constitution, and who have promised (if elected) to enforce all laws to the letter,

"Now, therefore, be it resolved, by the Friendly Circle Sunday School class, of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Santa Ana, in conference assembled,

"That we ourselves support; that we ask our friends and neighbors to support, and that we urge and solicit all voters who believe in law and order, good citizenship, and in the sacredness of the Constitution of our country, to support the above designated candidates with their votes on November fourth next, and

"Be it further resolved, that we commend and congratulate the Santa Ana Register and its editor, J. F. Burke, on the editorials which have recently been published in that paper, supporting the Democratic candidate, Milton K. Young, for governor of the state of California."

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Evidence of a "criminal plot" as the cause of the $1,500,000 blast which wrecked a portion of the Garment Capitol building Oct. 17, was claimed by fire department investigators today following the discovery of a missing section of a gas pipe.

The pipe, of three-fourths inch size and nine feet long, showed signs of having been recently unscrewed, investigators Paul Wolfe and Everett Harris declared.

The missing pipe, they asserted, apparently had been removed from a section of the gas conduit on the floor where the explosion occurred.

ONE of the major events in the Boy Scout year took place last night at Irvine park when 600 persons were present to witness the awarding of 98 merit badges and pins to Scouts of Orange county and veteran pins to H. G. Nelson, who received a pin for five years of service, and Lloyd B. Stearns, who received a veteran's pin for 10 years' service.

FLICKER IS TO BE COLORED BY CONTESTANTS THIS WEEK

Importance Of Law Enforcement Stressed By Editor

CANDIDATES IN ADDRESSES FOR LAGUNA GROUP

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 25.—"No question is more important than that which brings people together to consider it than the matter of law enforcement," J. F. Burke told an audience in the school auditorium here last night. The meeting was called by the Law Enforcement League, which, however, invited candidates in addition to those endorsed by it. The audience listened with close attention and applause was frequent.

Quoting Abraham Lincoln's "If America is ever destroyed it must come from within," Mr. Burke continued:

Crucial Question
I have devoted much time for a number of years to the study of law enforcement. It is the crucial question, America will be judged by what America transmits to the world. Other nations have made notable achievements along certain lines. What will America do? It is not liberty alone that this country must exhibit to the world, but liberty under law."

Stating that it is impossible to fight for or against abstract principles, that principles must be carried out by men, the chief speaker of the evening said that he knew something of the difficulties under which officials labored.

"But experience has taught me," the editor said, "that the man who fails to carry on his office within the scope of ideals usually fails because he does not understand. He thinks he is doing his work well, but it is because of his narrow view and that of his associates. Most officers are honest in the belief that they are doing right."

Higher Ideals
That the citizens must insist on higher ideals in public office was asserted by Mr. Burke. "Otherwise, we might as well turn everything over to the violators of law. We have a right to organize for enforcement of the one law that is most important," he told his hearers.

"It is not the men who are elected that is important, the speaker asserted, but the development of sentiment for law enforcement. Using burglary as an instance of law violation, he made this a parallel with liquor violations to illustrate the ridiculousness of assertions that the liquor laws should be repealed because they are violated. Stating his faith in the men and women who are working for enforcement, the editor said that those who labor for enforcement of one law extend this to others as well. He paid his tribute to the W. C. T. U. and its half-century struggle against liquor and its present battle for enforcement. That the latter had made an effort to ascertain the personal convictions of candidates was stated by the speaker, who read a list of questions which had been submitted by the W. C. T. U. to all candidates.

Firmness Necessary
Admitting that those who are for enforcement are likely to be vociferous in their opinions, he appealed to his hearers not to let personal rancor enter into their campaign against liquor and for enforcement. If hatred became a part, no matter on which side, that side suffered, he asserted. Firmness without bitterness must be the method pursued, the speaker admonished his hearers.

Expressing the belief that the spirit of Jesus Christ animates the men and women who are fighting against liquor, Mr. Burke closed his talk with the statement that he believed the Law Enforcement League to be endeavoring to protect the homes of the people of Orange county.

R. R. Lutes, secretary of the league, introduced by George E. Thompson, chairman of the meeting, introduced the league's candidates, Logan Jackson for sheriff, and Harry Westover for district attorney. He told the purpose of the league as being to study law enforcement now and later, regardless of what candidates might be elected. That the league is growing rapidly was stated by Mr. Lutes, who told of its being organized over the county and of receiving the endorsement of ministers, churches, prominent business men and citizens. He expected the work to be felt throughout the county, he said.

Sincerity Required
Mr. Jackson said that the officers of the county should be sincere and told of serving the people for eight years in his district. That officers of the law should do their duty was asserted by Mr. Jackson, who said that he did not use liquor and that if elected he would have deputies who were likewise dry. He was outspoken in his belief that there should be a change in the office of sheriff. If the grand jury were to say he was negligent and inefficient, he would abide by that decision, he assured his hearers. He thanked the voters of this district for support given him.

Harry Westover traced briefly his own career as lawyer from 1919, and said he had always been alone, which he thought might have given him an independence and self-reliance. He expressed full confidence in his ability to handle the affairs of the office and promised in the event of his election to appoint deputies who were experienced and dependable.

Says Change Desired
He had gone into the campaign, Mr. Westover stated, convinced that the people of Orange county wanted a change. More than half of the people are dry in sentiment, he thought, and characterized the wet and dry issue as the greatest since slavery, pointing to states in which it was the major issue in the elections.

He said that he had been told he had given too much emphasis to liquor enforcement, but that he believed this most important, and with enforcement of liquor laws, other violations would be well taken care of. Claims of votes to be as dry as the drys cause much confusion among voters, he said.

Each candidate was allowed 10

THIRTY-TWO TODAY.
A heavy thunderstorm broke just after the members of the two royal families entered the basilica. A heavy rain was accompanied by hail. A dozen automobiles at the end of the wedding procession were caught in the storm, but the royal couple and the wedding party entered the church safely.

The royal party arrived here by train and traveled to the church in 100 automobiles. The procession formed at the station and followed a route of two miles to the basilica, flanked by a guard of 4000 troops.

Father Rizzo received the wedding party at the entrance of the church. Inside, 300 little girls of Assisi cast white roses in the path of the princess. Eight communal valets stood beside the altar and sounded the call to attention at the elevation during mass, and repeated the hymn of Assisi.

Behind the altar were 50 of the king's own cuirassiers, standard bearers of the flag of Assisi. Father Rizzo ascended to the altar as the royal couple knelt. Low mass was celebrated with great fervor and followed with intense devotion by the members of the royal families and the others present.

When mass was completed the nuptial ceremony was begun by the playing of the ring upon the bride's finger. The bride and groom and the witnesses signed the necessary registers after the ceremony and the procession reform and proceeded to the lower basilica.

The wedding party proceeded slowly across the lawn of the church while a choir of 200 Franciscans, dressed in the severe garb of the order, sang a motet. The bells of the town's churches pealed the joyous news of the union as the wedding party, headed by King Boris with his bride on his arm, walked to the lower basilica.

Here the bride and groom and the entire party venerated the ashes of St. Francis in prayer before his tomb.

King Victor Emmanuel with Princess Giovanna on his arm, headed the wedding procession to the basilica. King Boris followed with Queen Helen of Italy. Then came Ferdinand, father of the groom and former Bulgarian czar, with Princess Marie Jose of Piedmont, wife of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy.

After the visit to the lower church the wedding party proceeded to the city hall of Assisi for the civil registration of the marriage. Premier Mussolini and Crown Prince Humbert welcomed the king and queen at the station here today.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Demonstrations in favor of the revolutionary triumph continued here today. Four persons have been killed and 20 others injured in disorders since the news of the government's overthrow was received.

Dr. Getulio Vargas, the southern rebel leader, was reported in Chavantes, enroute here. He was expected to hurry on to Rio de Janeiro.

There was some sporadic gunfire and considerable rioting in Sao Paulo last night and this morning. Several political clubs were wrecked and the furniture piled in the streets and burned.

The whereabouts of Dr. Julio Prestes, president-elect of Brazil, against whom the revolt was directed, were still unknown.

The revolutionary leaders who seized control of the government of Brazil yesterday amid great confusion, began today the difficult task of restoration of normal conditions under a stable provisional regime.

Formation of a "governing junta (committee)" headed by General Tasso Fracoso was announced in a communique, which said deposed President Washington Luis "hand-overed the government after receiving all considerations due to his high post."

Washington Luis, who yesterday defiantly told the revolutionary leaders they might kill him but he would not resign, has been held prisoner in Copacabana fortress, but the communique said all members of the cabinet had been "exonerated."

A message sent to Brazilian diplomatic envoys abroad said the governing junta would include President Gen. Tasso Fracoso, En. Manna Barreto, and Admiral Laís Noronha.

The program of the junta provided for "fraternity of the Brazilian nation and fulfillment of national obligations abroad," the message said.

"The movement was realized without bloodshed and with great orderliness and respect for the deposed authorities," said the message, signed by Ronald Carvalho, the new foreign minister. "The people accompanied the event with great acclamation and the city presented the aspect of a national festival."

The message failed to clear up definitely the status of the powerful southern revolutionary leaders, whose chief figure, Dr. Getulio Vargas, of Rio Grande Do Sul, is due here shortly by airplane or train.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(UP)—The state department announced today that the question of recognizing a revolutionary government in Brazil has not arisen yet because reports from Rio de Janeiro do not yet show clearly whether the military junta will replace the Washington Luis regime as the government of the entire country.

The department also stated this government is determining whether to recognize a revolutionary government will be guided by the precedents announced by Secretary Stimson last summer when he exchanged diplomatic courtesies with new regimes in Peru, Bolivia and Argentina.

The three points by which any new revolutionary government would be judged are announced by the department as follows:

1.—Whether it has actual control of the country and represents its people.

2.—Whether it has sufficient strength to protect life and liberty.

3.—Whether it is willing and able to fulfill its international obligations.

The ceremony began at 11 a.m. It is the first of two which are necessitated by the differing religious faiths of Boris and Giovanna. Besides the Roman Catholic service another will be performed by the Metropolitan Stephen, head of the Bulgarian orthodox church, at the great Alexander Nevsky cathedral of Sofia.

A heavy thunderstorm broke just after the members of the two royal families entered the basilica. A heavy rain was accompanied by hail. A dozen automobiles at the end of the wedding procession were caught in the storm, but the royal couple and the wedding party entered the church safely.

The royal party arrived here by train and traveled to the church in 100 automobiles. The procession formed at the station and followed a route of two miles to the basilica, flanked by a guard of 4000 troops.

Father Rizzo received the wedding party at the entrance of the church. Inside, 300 little girls of Assisi cast white roses in the path of the princess. Eight communal valets stood beside the altar and sounded the call to attention at the elevation during mass, and repeated the hymn of Assisi.

Behind the altar were 50 of the king's own cuirassiers, standard bearers of the flag of Assisi. Father Rizzo ascended to the altar as the royal couple knelt. Low mass was celebrated with great fervor and followed with intense devotion by the members of the royal families and the others present.

When mass was completed the nuptial ceremony was begun by the playing of the ring upon the bride's finger. The bride and groom and the witnesses signed the necessary registers after the ceremony and the procession reform and proceeded to the lower basilica.

The wedding party proceeded slowly across the lawn of the church while a choir of 200 Franciscans, dressed in the severe garb of the order, sang a motet. The bells of the town's churches pealed the joyous news of the union as the wedding party, headed by King Boris with his bride on his arm, walked to the lower basilica.

Here the bride and groom and the entire party venerated the ashes of St. Francis in prayer before his tomb.

King Victor Emmanuel with Princess Giovanna on his arm, headed the wedding procession to the basilica. King Boris followed with Queen Helen of Italy. Then came Ferdinand, father of the groom and former Bulgarian czar, with Princess Marie Jose of Piedmont, wife of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy.

After the visit to the lower church the wedding party proceeded to the city hall of Assisi for the civil registration of the marriage. Premier Mussolini and Crown Prince Humbert welcomed the king and queen at the station here today.

Brazilian authorities to afford German satisfaction, the incident will entail no consequences.

"Such misadventures belong to periods of unrest and upheaval. We are confident that the affair will not affect friendly relations between Germany and Brazil."

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Demonstrations in favor of the revolutionary triumph continued here today. Four persons have been killed and 20 others injured in disorders since the news of the government's overthrow was received.

Dr. Getulio Vargas, the southern rebel leader, was reported in Chavantes, enroute here. He was expected to hurry on to Rio de Janeiro.

There was some sporadic gunfire and considerable rioting in Sao Paulo last night and this morning. Several political clubs were wrecked and the furniture piled in the streets and burned.

The whereabouts of Dr. Julio Prestes, president-elect of Brazil, against whom the revolt was directed, were still unknown.

The revolutionary leaders who seized control of the government of Brazil yesterday amid great confusion, began today the difficult task of restoration of normal conditions under a stable provisional regime.

Washington Luis, who yesterday defiantly told the revolutionary leaders they might kill him but he would not resign, has been held prisoner in Copacabana fortress, but the communique said all members of the cabinet had been "exonerated."

HONOLULU BANS PET DOG: HOPE HAMPTON IRATE

When this plan, by necessity, was refused, he launched upon the possibilities of chartering a vessel to return him, his wife and dog to Los Angeles, but that too was found to be unfeasible.

Two courses of action remain open to the troubled travelers.

Either they can depart from here today for Los Angeles on the Calawall, without seeing the islands, or remain on board the liner they now occupy—and not see the island.

For one thing Miss Hampton has definitely declared: she will not leave Foutie, and Mr. Brulattour is just as adverse to leaving his lovely wife.

Another way out of the predicament—hardly probable, however—is that a kind hearted legislature will pass an act to change the law. Meanwhile everyone, except Foutie, is horribly upset.

Jury Disagrees On Murder Case; Defendant Free
FRESNO, Calif., Oct. 25.—(UP)—William Maglio, Sanger farm youth, today was free on $5000 bond although still charged with the first degree "grape campaign murder" of A. T. Matigon, the result of a hopelessly disagreeing jury.

The jury was discharged at 10:10 last night by Superior Judge Denver S. Church after they had been out nearly eight hours. It was reported that almost from the first ballot the jury voted eight to four for acquittal.

Immediately after the jury's dismissal the hall was set and by midnight posted and young Maglio was free for the first time in more than 100 days.

For the Exceptional Young Man or Woman
—a new profession!

SOME years ago, a convention reporter, searching for ways to speed up and improve his work, invented a shorthand machine which he named the Stenotype. This machine weighs only four and a half pounds and is operated by a very simple keyboard of sixteen keys. It records speech in plain printed letters and at a speed and accuracy surpassing any other method of taking dictation.

During the 12 years since, the Stenotype has been thoroughly tested under the most difficult conditions—in conventions, court rooms, and in offices where rapid, important dictation had to be recorded quickly and accurately. One company alone has had 200 Stenotype operators for ten years reporting important meetings and conventions. The Stenotype machine has made good under every test. Business is now satisfied with the Stenotype and is asking for efficient operators.

All this means that the earnest, capable young man or woman who learns now to operate the Stenotype has unusual opportunities ahead of him, both for the immediate future and over a period of years. Stenotype is a new profession, and the first operators in the field will enjoy rich advantages. In keeping with our established policy of serving completely the business training needs of this community, we have added a Stenotype Department where experienced instructors will give complete training in Stenotype to almost any number of picked students. We do not wish a large class. We want only those who are capable and earnest.

If you are interested, we shall be glad to discuss thoroughly the Stenotype machine and Stenotype as a possibility for you. Write, phone, or better yet, come in.

COURT DISMISSES CHECK COMPLAINT

An important point in criminal law was brought out Thursday afternoon in the court of justice Kenneth E. Morrison when following the introduction of evidence the court dismissed a complaint against S. M. Andrews, Long Beach resident, charged with issuing a check without sufficient funds. Evidence presented by Attorney D. G. Westlin on behalf of the defendant showed that the complaining party had failed to present the check in question for collection within reasonable time, which circumstance absolved the defendant of criminal intent.

100 ATTRACTED MEMBER GAIN TO ROAD MEET FRIDAY NIGHT RECORDED FOR SCHOOL P. T. A.

Observing its first birthday anniversary, the Imperial Highway association met Friday evening at Brea, where the organization meeting was held just a year ago. The Legion hall, with 100 present for the 6:30 o'clock dinner which was served by the Legion auxiliary.

The dining room was decorated with black cats and yellow pumpkins, laid flowers in shades of yellow decorated the tables, and each guest wore a Halloween hat.

President L. A. Hogue of the Brea Chamber of Commerce was chairman at the dinner meeting, for this was also the evening meeting of the organization, and introduced Councilman F. J. Schweitzer, who gave the address of welcome to which Mr. Hopper responded.

A musical program was presented by the Mayo trio, and after asking various committees to report at the next meeting, the chamber of commerce meeting was adjourned and the guests proceeded to the lodge room where the Imperial highway association convened. Representatives were present from La Habra, Lynnwood, Norwalk, Yorba Linda, Elsinore, Brea, Huntington Beach, Laguna Beach, Fullerton, Anaheim, Placentia and Atwood. El Centro could not send a delegation but telegrams were received from their representatives, R. B. Whitelaw, Leo Hetzel and Bob Rays.

Reports on the progress of the highway were heard, after which President Ed Peterkin introduced H. B. Speer, of Huntington Beach, who has traveled over the old Butterfield stage route and has written a book in which is incorporated the story of this historic trail.

Speer told of how this first mail route was established, described the route and the various stations along it, and related many interesting incidents both of happenings in those days and of his trips over the old trail. He asked that this route be given consideration for the sake of its historical value.

G. W. and Hartwell Smith of Laguna Beach spoke of the interest the Imperial highway held for that section of the county, for the Ortega highway will connect with it. Mr. McGuire of Elsinore, also spoke of the Ortega highway and Orange county's part in it. W. J. Carmichael suggested that George Kellogg present details of this project to the road committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, stating that it was a thing that deserved the support of everyone.

Jim Bergman, a resident of Brea, who was born and raised at the old Butterfield stage station at Agrona, where Helen Hunt Jackson wrote the historical romance "Ramona," was introduced and told of the old days there.

The next meeting will be held at El Centro Saturday, November 29, and officers for the coming year will be elected.

'ROOMING HOUSE' BURGLAR ACTIVE

Evidence that Santa Ana's rooming house burglar, who when last heard of seen, gave his name as George Fenton, is still doing business, was a report filed this morning at police headquarters to the effect that a room occupied by Gus Wenzburg, at 805 East Fourth street, had been entered and several articles of value, including a white gold wrist watch, a fountain pen, and several new broadcloth shirts had been taken. The burglar gained entrance to the room by using a pass key, the report added.

Melgoza Charged With Forgery In Superior Court

Two informations were filed by the office of District Attorney Z. B. West yesterday in the court of Judge James L. Allen when the criminal calendar was called. One resulted in a plea of guilty and the other defendant pleaded not guilty. Nemisio Melgoza answered guilty when arraigned on a charge of forgery. It is alleged that on July 17 he forged an endorsement on a check for $126.50, which had been made to the order of J. Uriarte by Mrs. A. G. Finley. He entered a petition for probation and the hearing in the matter was set by Judge Allen for Oct. 31.

Paul Cruz was charged with assault with a deadly weapon and pleaded not guilty when arraigned on the charge. It is alleged that he attacked Dolores Mender with a knife on Oct. 9. He will be tried before a jury on Nov. 6.

L. A. Orchestra to Provide Music For Dance of Firemen

The Los Angeles fire department orchestra will furnish music for the annual benefit dance to be given by the Santa Ana Fire department tonight at the K. P. hall, Fifth and Broadway, it was announced today by Homer J. McCormack, chairman of the dance committee.

McCormack has received a letter from R. J. Scott, chief engineer of the Los Angeles department, in which the letter stated that "it will be a pleasure for this department to furnish you with the services of our orchestra for your annual benefit dance."

Scott said that he had taken the matter up with J. C. Goodrich, manager of the orchestra, and that everything had been arranged for the trip to Santa Ana.

FAVORITE HAS ROLE OF FATHER IN PLAY HERE

"She Stoops to Conquer," the community play to be presented at the end of next week, contains the usual proportion of new and unfamiliar faces. It is always interesting to see the new faces, but it is also interesting to see old favorites in new roles.

One of the old favorites in this play is Arthur Collins, who has played in so many Community plays that a season does not seem complete without him. He has played ever since the first season in "The Maker of Dreams" and "The Servant in the House." Since then the list of plays in which he has taken part include "Yellow Jacket," "The Country Cousin," "Good Gracious, Annabelle," and "The Devil's Disciple." He has also taken part in the numerous plays at the monthly meetings of the Community Players' club, so that the members of the club are very familiar with his work.

He is playing an important part in the current production, that of Mr. Hardcastle. Mr. Hardcastle is the father of the heroine, and it is his desire that his daughter marry the son of his best friend. His stepson plays the joke on him of directing the intended husband to the house, telling him that it is an inn. Mr. Hardcastle is naturally quite taken back by the calm way in which his hospitality is taken for granted. The most uproariously funny situations arise, as might well be imagined, with Hardcastle furnishing a good share of the fun.

New members taken in were John F. Erickson, Orange; Mrs. De Le Vergne, Long Beach, and E. F. Caldwell, Laguna Beach. Those present were Arthur W. Blefeld, taken in as an honorary member; Edward W. Cochran, president; Frank Collier, Mr. Stout, Richard Lewis, V. D. Wood, Caldwell and son, Ira; Mr. and Mrs. George Betzold, P. O. Dodge, Mrs. and Miss De Le Vergne, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. B. D. ## General Electric Refrigerator Sale Increase Reported

Reports of sales of General Electric refrigerators in Southern California for the first nine months of this year showed an increase of 35 percent over the corresponding period of last year according to Wm. LeVecke company, 420 N. Broadway, local dealers.

"While this increase is most gratifying, the prospects for a greater rate of increase for the final quarter of the year are encouraging," said Wm. LeVecke, head of the company.

"October sales so far have been accelerated, largely due to the present nation-wide drive in which the General Electric refrigeration department hopes to sell $20,000,000 worth of refrigerators in ten weeks.

DEPUTY CUT WHEN LIQUOR JUG FALLS

F. W. Howard, chief criminal deputy sheriff, was nursing a cut knee and cuts on the shin and wrist today. They were sustained late yesterday when he attempted to carry a five-gallon jug of confiscated alcohol from a truck into the sheriff's office.

The jug slipped and Howard fell. The shattered glass was responsible for the cuts.

The liquor was captured by sheriff's officers, led by Howard in a raid at Cypress yesterday morning, and the officers were removing the contraband into the sheriff's office at the time of the accident.

Refrigerators were sold for the nine months ending September 30th, than for the same period of last year.

RESIDENCE OF CHARLES REED DRAWS NOTICE

ORANGE, Oct. 25.—A home, each room of which was built around furnishings already selected and the whole assembled into a most harmonious structure, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Reed, 1440 East Chapman avenue.

The atmosphere of originality which pervades the home is evident from the exterior where an Indian tepee stands on the lawn and where a miniature mountain has been built back of the house. An old well in the yard is a reproduction of many of the wells seen a century ago.

The stucco on the exterior has been made to represent an adobe wall which has cracked away in places and which shows the brick wall beneath. This touch is one of the many which gives a distinctive note to the residence.

An antique bellpull hangs outside the massive oak door which opens into a small entry at the front of the home. Here the Spanish-Indian note which is stressed throughout the home, is first seen. A unique umbrella holder is a large vase built into the wall and which has an outlet to the outside.

The living room is spacious with a high beamed ceiling and between the beams are hand-painted Indian designs. The furnishings are Spanish. Flood lights which may be dimmed or brightened light the ceiling. An old Spanish bell hangs on the wall and is attached to the doorpull.

Across the south side of the living room is a balcony further carrying out the Spanish motif of the room. A winding stairway leads to the balcony and to the upper rooms.

Opening from the living room is the music room, where lighting fixtures are especially lovely and where a light which represents a forest fire flares and burns under a beautiful globe.

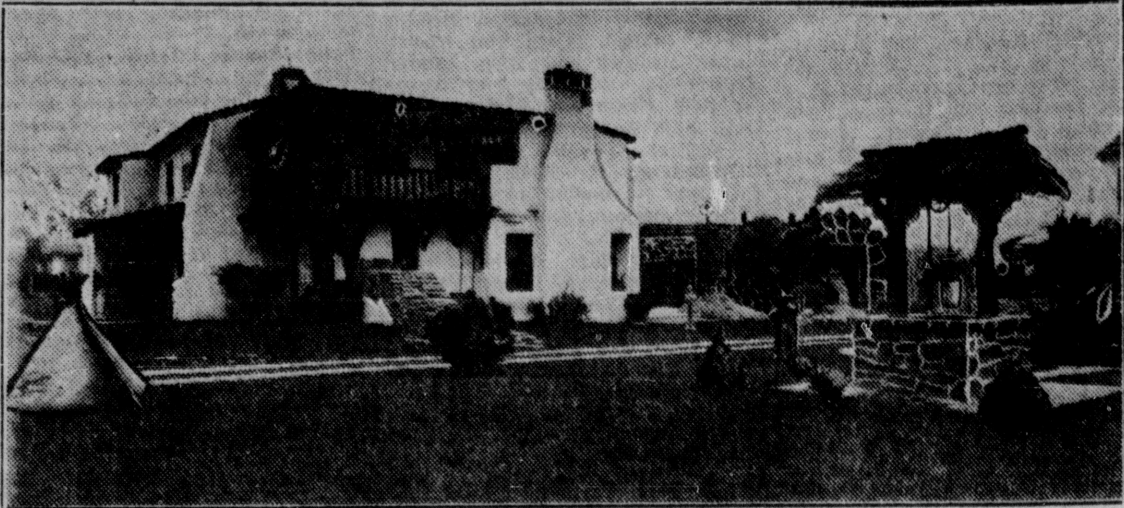

Pictures used in the home are copies of favorite photographs or paintings of the owners and everywhere is the personality of those living in the home.

The paintings were done by James Redmon, Santa Ana decorator, who also painted the ceilings.

Large fireplace. The library, which is on the first floor, has a large fireplace across the east wall, and a pool with a tiny fountain of dripping water has been built in one corner. The furnishings of the rooms are early Spanish-American with Navajo rugs, one of which was awarded first prize at an exhibit of rugs in New Mexico.

A magazine cabinet built in the wall which holds magazines and papers and shuts them from view was designed by Mrs. Reed, many of whose ideas are incorporated in the home.

The maid's room, the dining room and kitchen are also on the ground floor. The lighting fixtures in the dining room were especially designed, as were nearly all of those used, and represent partially coiled serpents. The breakfast room opens from the dining room and kitchen. A unique feature of the kitchen is a small marble sink fitted in the drainboard of the sink and which has been embedded in it a hammer for cracking nuts. All of the water in the plumbing fixtures is mixed in the pipes and is of medium heat. The desired degree of heat or cold for the water is obtained by another attachment. The home is heated by six furnaces which may be turned on to heat one room at a time.

Open on Patio. All of the rooms on the ground floor, with the exception of the breakfast room, open on the patio of which a lovely view may be had from the balcony which runs around it. Several fish ponds and pools are in the patio and a big out-of-door fireplace is built on one side. Ancient appearing walks cross the patio grounds.

The bedrooms are each different in type but each equally attractive. In one guest room a note of old Spain is seen with light fixtures copied from lamps 200 years old. From the bedroom of the owners of the home a red and black tile bath room opens on the sun bath which has a high wall. A glass door over which is stretched a huge spider web and a great spider, both of metal, provides the entrance to the sun bath. All of the showers in the bath-rooms are furnished with sliding glass doors rather than curtains.

Daniel Boone Horn. One bedroom is in sunset tints, the walls tinted orange at their base and shading to the blue of azure skies in the ceiling. The billiard room is on the second floor and here over the fireplace hangs a powder horn which was used by Daniel Boone. The horn was a gift to Mrs. Reed and when she received it, it was decorated with bows of baby ribbon.

A radio connection in each room makes programs on the living room radio available. More wire was required to install the radio equipment than the electrical equipment. By pushing another button, those in each room of the home may hear a three-hour program of records, another button rejecting any record that the listener may not fancy.

The upper floor may be reached by an outside stairway which leads from the patio to the balcony as well as by the inside stairway. The miniature mountain at the back of the home was inspired by Durango mountain in Colorado, where the Reeds lived for many years and where they learned to know Indians and to love the art of the aborigines. Tricking water runs down the mountain sides between vegetation which would naturally be found on such a slope. On the warm and sunny side of the mountain is the rose garden, with a long arbor covered with wisteria and roses, where tables may be set. A stove is nearby where out-of-door meals may be cooked.

The garage is equipped with doors which when let down can be operated only from the inside of the home.

Dream of Years. The home is a dream of the owners which they had for many years and which was brought to realization the past year. Merle Lamson, Santa Ana architect, helped the Reeds in carrying out the many unusual ideas embodied in the house and grounds, among which are the representation of a wheel from the old olive mill at San Juan Capistrano, an old hand carved sycamore stump, the hand made cracked walls, the great green cactus on the mountain and the stone rails along the path up the mountain side.

THE FLICKER

COLOR THIS FLICKER

Name .....

Address .....

Age ..... School .....

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COLORING

The colors in this picture will be stronger and deeper than last week's picture of the dove. The background at the left will be various shades of green for the foliage and grass, the trunk of the tree should be colored a deep brown shaded with blue gray and green, with high lights of light brown and yellow.

The Flicker is a very pretty bird with a spot of light red on the back of its head blending into a soft warm gray, its black eye and beak, its light yellow breast with contrasting spots of dark brown, the tip of the tail is black with white and black streaks near the body, the wings are light brown streaked crosswise with dark brown almost black, the feet are dark gray. Use strong colors for the tree and background and the bird will stand out very beautifully.

By Miss Carrie Jacobs

Boys, have you ever stopped to think that when you call a boy by a nickname, that name almost always tells something about that boy? A few of the birds have given us their own names, as the chickadee, jay and bobwhite. For that is what they call as they fly about.

The flicker is called the bird of many names, for it is to be seen all over the eastern part of this country, and people everywhere call it by the name they like best. You will probably most often hear it called yellow hammer, around here, especially in the country. Yellow is the color that shows most plainly as the bird flies toward you, and as it is a woodpecker you can readily see where the name hammer comes from. Golden, winged and yellow shafter woodpecker are names given to it on account of its color, too, as the under side of its wings are a golden yellow, and the shafts or stiff parts of its wing and tail feathers are the same color, even on top.

High hole tells where it makes its nest, and the hole that it chisels out is almost a perfect circle and nearly two inches across. When it cuts out its nesting place in a dead tree, or a telephone pole, or some such place, chips an inch long can be seen on the ground for some distance around the place.

Wake-up is given from its call which sounds something like that name. "Wick-le! Wick-le! Wick-le!" This is its spring song or call.

The name flicker, that seems to be the best after all, and the most common name, comes either from its jerky, wavelike flight, or because when it flies we see the yellow color flicker as we see the light of a candle flicker when the wind blows.

The flicker is larger than a robin. Like all woodpeckers it has a long, strong, dark beak, and two of its four toes turned to the front and two to the back to help it cling to a tree. The tail feathers are stiff and it braces itself against the tree with them. Other marks are a red crescent spot on the back of the neck near the head, a black crescent-like spot across the breast, something like the spot of the meadow lark, a large white spot on its back near the tail, seen especially when flying, and black stripes like a mouse-tache on either side of the throat beginning at the bill. The mother bird does not have the mouse-tache.

The top of the head is a bluish gray. The back is golden brown with streaks and bars. The under-part is brownish white, covered thickly with black spots. There is a little white on its tail feathers.

Although it is a true woodpecker it is a very independent one and does things in its own way. It can peck wood, but it prefers to get the most of its food on the ground, and for this reason it is often mistaken for the meadow lark when it is foraging. There is another woodpecker called the zebra bird that looks very much like the flicker, too.

All woodpeckers are useful birds in that they eat insects, especially grubs and young beetles that live in wood and under the bark of trees.

The flicker does something else that makes it a very useful bird. It eats ants and will stand over several ant holes and eat the ants as they come out, often pecking at the hole, thus disturbing the ants and causing them to come out to see what is the matter.

More than half of the food it eats are ants, and you all know what a nuisance ants are when they come into the house. Sometimes you will learn of other things that they do that make them be classed among injurious insects. So we are all very thankful to the flicker for helping us to get rid of them. The flicker also eats other insects and likes fruit for dessert.

They say the young flickers are very ugly, but very few people get to see them, they are so well hidden in their hollowed-out home.

The eggs are white as most eggs are that are protected in some other way, so that color protection is not needed. In a few days the feathers grow on the young birds and they are strong enough to climb to the opening of the nest when the old birds bring food.

They are noisy birds and seem to like the noise. They have a number of calls, and do a lot of calling, especially in the spring. If the winter is not a very cold one they can be seen all year, or if they know some feeding shelf where they are sure of food, but they are most common from the last of March or first of April to late in October.

They usually make a new hole each year and leave the old one for screech owls and sparrow hawks, or even bluebirds and chickadees. They are not a shy but will make their nest in a limb of a tree over a path where people pass every day. They are playful birds and it is fun to watch the flicker. When the other birds are around, each one taking its part a rap-a-tap-tap can be heard and you may know that the flicker is somewhere near on a broken limb of a tree rapping as a drummer raps on his drum. It likes a tin roof or something made of metal best of all. This rapping has caused some people to believe in ghosts, for the flicker will go into an old barn or a deserted house and rap and people who are passing imagine ghosts are making the noise.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Spiritual Weapons In a World War

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Oct. 25. Spiritual Weapons in a World War. Galatians 5:13-26.

Editor of The Congregationalist

This is the lesson for World's Temperance Sunday. Here in America we may think of this day either too exclusively, or too little, in terms of our national problems associated with prohibition.

To consider the problems of temperance, and especially of religion and of Bible study in relation to temperance, exclusively from the standpoint of prohibition is to cut off our consideration too completely from the rest of the world and to fail to make this a world's temperance lesson.

On the other hand, to ignore the immediate and special problems that confront us in America, where we have nationally adopted a prohibitory law, would be to make the study of the lesson too remote and too theoretical. What would seem to be necessary would be to study the lesson in its deeper and larger implications, and then consider its application to our immediate problems.

America's Problem
It should never be forgotten that our problem in America is still very largely one of temperance and of voluntary action. The fact that laws have been passed does not remove from the stage all emphasis upon personal ideals and voluntary action. The fact that voluntary abstinence at the present time has an enhanced value because it is a phase of good citizenship and obedience to the law of the land.

There are, of course, certain circumstances under which disobedience to law may become a valuable or even a dutiful course. But it would seem that no conscientious duty could attach to the drinking of intoxicating liquor.

The man who disobeys the prohibitory law is very much in the same category as the man who disobeys the tariff law or some other law of the land concerning which he might say that what it forbids is not something inherently wrong. There are many who feel that our prohibitory laws will never be entirely effective until a more vigorous campaign by precept and example is carried on in behalf of voluntary abstinence and obedience to the law.

The principles which apply to the situation both with regard to temperance in general and in relation to prohibition in particular are fairly well brought out in the lesson. Paul, in his letter to the Galatians, is dealing with the matter of freedom and the wise use of freedom. He points out what is perfectly true, that law exists for higher ends, and that law can never be fulfilled by merely formal obedience.

The moral law is fulfilled only in the exercise of love for one's neighbor. There is a course of life, however, which may be said to be neither law-abiding nor law defying. It is a course that is above the law—a way of life so true, so noble, so careful in its consideration for others that if everyone lived in such a way laws would not be necessary. So Paul says, "If ye are led by the spirit ye are not under the law." He does not mean by this to say that lawless people can claim privileges and exemptions for themselves on the plea that they are led by the spirit.

The Real Test
What he means, rather, is that the life that is truly in the spirit is of such a high and noble sort that the law does not affect it. The test of spiritual guidance Paul puts very definitely in the manifestation of the fruits of the spirit. These fruits of the spirit he defines as love, joy, peace, long-suffering, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, meekness, self-control; and against these he says, quite truly, there is no law.

There are people who seem to think that if all laws were wiped out this higher course of life would naturally be followed, and there are those who think that this higher course of life is rendered less free and noble through the fact that there are laws governing conduct. Now and again one finds a man who says that he would refrain from a certain course voluntarily, but as the law forbids it he feels inclined to do it. That may be a widespread psychology, but it is a wrong psychology.

Why should not a man do what he feels is best regardless of law? Not to do a thing simply because the law says that he must do it seems absurd if the thing in itself be worthy. There is a great need of seeing such matters through and of establishing a new psychology in our American life and customs. What is psychology, after all, but spiritual life and spiritual attitude?

Freedom is a matter of the spirit and the man who is doing what he approves as right is following the course that is rendered no less right and no less noble because of any law that exists concerning the matter. To do something that the law enjoins is no less worthy because the law happens to enjoin it. This is a simple fact that is not adequately expressed and emphasized today.

Two-thirds of promotion is motion.

The Church Invites You

THE BEST PLACE TO WORSHIP

The following appearing in a recent issue of the St. Louis Herald, indicates the best place to worship:—

You can worship God in your homes Sunday—but you don't.
You can worship God in the woods and in the fields—but you don't.
You can worship God in a different church every Sunday—but you don't.
You can worship God by sending the children to Sunday school and stay at home yourself—but you don't.

You can worship God by coming to church with the children—but do you?
Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?
—D. Carl Yoder.

(Send church and Sunday school problems in question form to the church editor; question with answer will appear in later issue.)

Is the week day church school movement growing or has there been a decrease in the number of communities carrying on this type of work?

The week day church school movement, taking the nation as a whole is growing steadily. Adverse opinions on the part of state officials have brought the movement to a standstill in a few states, but in states where there is not this handicap there has been a gratifying development of the movement during the past year. New York state reported an increase of 20 per cent last year in the number of schools.

What should be guided principles in determining the best courses of study for young people's classes in the church school?

1. The units of work should relate themselves directly to the interests and needs of young people; 2. Over a period of two or three years, the succession of courses should be so related that there will be a curriculum which moves step by step toward a larger understanding and application of Christian truth.

The guiding compass of our voyage through life - the Bible

The Bible is a book of faith, and a book of doctrine of morals and of religion—but it is also a book that teaches man his own individual responsibility, his own dignity and his equality with fellow men. It is sometimes said "I can find God without the help of the Bible, or church or clergy."

Possible, of course. The steamship company would feel no jealousy if a man should prefer to swim to Europe. Let him do so if he is able and we will talk about it on the other shore—but probably trying to swim is the thing that would bring him quickest to the boat. So, God would have no jealousy of a man going to heaven without the aid of the Bible or the church or the minister—but let him try to do so and it will be the surest way to bring him back to them for assistance.

The Bible stands alone in literature in its elevated conception of manhood in character and conduct.

The Better Way

Three ideals for industry

There are to be seen three ideals which are seeking to dominate industry today.

First, the materialistic ideal. It values everything in terms of matter. Labor is so many "hands." Units of tollers are checked off on the payroll as so many producers. They are not recognized as human beings with hearts and aspirations and children and wives and mothers behind them.

Second, the commercial ideal. This conception lays emphasis upon wealth. Money, wages, income, sales, production, everything must contribute to the success of the business. Men must bend their backs without whimpering for the business must go, the bigger, the better at any cost. Commerce makes business, therefore subordinates everything to that end.

Third, the Christian ideal. This stands for the interests of the individual. His good must always be held as permanent and pre-eminent. Whatever contributes to his welfare should be encouraged. Whatever is related to society should be valued as it contributes to the promotion of the interests of the kingdom of heaven.

2. How can law and love be harmonized?

3. Why is self control such an important virtue? How do intoxicating drinks affect self control?
4. Define freedom and liberty? Under what conditions is a man really free and can enjoy the largest liberty?

5. What are the needed improvements for better law-enforcement of national prohibition?
6. How may a victory of the spirit over the flesh be more permanent?

Irving Fisher, professor of economics of Yale University declares that prohibition, because of increased efficiency of workmen, has added annually three billion dollars to our national income and that in addition, prohibition transfers into profitable channels three billions annually which would have been spent on liquor. He cannot estimate in money the savings in cost of jails, almshouses, asylums, etc., or any economic savings from reducing the death rate.

Study Dogdom's Heroes To See If They Think

Words By GILBERT SWAN

How the honor roll of mongrel pups credited with saving human life gives scientists new evidence for deciding whether dogs behave by acts of pure reason or instinct

"When Cave walked about town . . . he always had a collection of pups in his wake. . . . But Spot was his dog, and Cave was Spot's man."

DOGDOM will henceforth have its own roll of honor. And rightly, too! The unknown heroes of the four-footed realm have never had, until this year, their service record kept for them.

And this record is an amazing one—perplexing in its revelation of the unexplained instances of instinct and intelligence; stirring in its unselfish heroism.

In a typical New York skyscraper, and in a typical Manhattan office there are filed today hundreds of affidavits and letters testifying to the deeds of innumerable Fritzes and Spots and Fidos and Babes and Sports and Mickeys.

For the most part, you'll find them a mongrel breed; dogs that have the most nondescript type of ancestry; the sort of dogs you stumble over on the street; the waifs that follow you home and that you haven't the heart to throw out; the funny, friendly, grateful animals that your youngsters love.

These many cases have been tracked down by the Dog Hero Award Committee, which henceforth will annually give a gold medal to some dog and which will collect the necessary documentation on the loyalty of dog to man.

Scientists who take up the problems of animal psychology are going to be given something to ponder over.

How does a dog know that a fire is damaging his master's property? How might a dog be expected to know that a rope would choke a man or a beast? Or that the scratching at a door would call attention to an impending catastrophe? How, in fact, to chart the dog's awareness to the catastrophe?

BUT to get down to Brownie, for instance. Brownie was awarded the 1930 medal by the Spratt award committee.

Brownie does not answer to a blue-blooded pedigree. There is some collie in him and there is some Spitz, and some of his ancestors must have been traveling salesmen.

But little Helen Pappan and all the other Pappans of Pasadena, Cal., wouldn't take their combined weight in gold for Brownie. The Pappans got him as most families get dogs—by accident. He moved in and stayed in, and Helen was then pretty much of a baby. But she had an older sister who went to school. Brownie went along and saw to it that she crossed all the streets safely. Once she was in the school yard, he'd find his way home and after school he would call for her.

Little Helen reached the age of 13 months and it was then necessary for Brownie to look after both of them.

One day Helen broke away from her mother. The child toddled into a traffic-crowded street.

The passing motors became some sort of new game to her. Her frantic mother started after her; cars blocked the way. The mother started again; cars were fast bearing down on the child. Out ran Brownie. Amazingly enough, he knew just what to do. He grabbed the child's dress and, waiting his chance, dragged her back to safety.

Mongrel? Sure! Half of this and half of that. But before this incident Brownie already had learned to know a burglar, and once barked an alarm. Also he had befriended a motherless brood of kittens when animal enemies bothered them. He could chase chickens out of the garden and otherwise protect his master's household.

LET'S jump around the map a bit, and we come to Lucky, a shepherd. Lucky's home is Somerville, Mass. In the Young household, where he made his home, was a small boy, Robert, aged 10. And Bobbie, after the fashion of small boys, had decided one day to "hide" from the family. His running away got him no further than the cellar, and there the lad hid, under a pile of old screens and doors. But while trying to crawl into a particularly dark corner, he unbalanced the entire pile and was caught under it.

Meanwhile his frantic parents were searching everywhere. He was in great danger of being smothered to death.

But what his parents couldn't do was easy work for Lucky. Turned loose on the hunt, he was at the side of the cellar cave-in within a few moments and was calling the family's attention by a series of well-voiced barks. Master Robert was saved.

Holbrook, Mass., presents Prince as its dog of the year. And little Ileana Depson, aged two, and as cute a child as anyone ever looked upon, is also alive to testify to the bravery of Prince.

Little Ileana's house was not far from the railroad track. The child was having a grand time playing along the rails when an express train approached. Prince, her pet shepherd and playmate, saw the danger. Again, don't ask me how dogs know these things! That's a task for the psychologists.

But Prince knew, and a moment before the train would have blotted out her life, he had picked her up by the dress and tossed the child to safety beyond the tracks.

But wait! There's Mickey, the wire-haired something-or-other, that died for little Jackie Goehring.

All of these stories don't have happy endings. Mickey's parentage was uncertain, to say the least. He did have wire hair, but where the rest of him came from couldn't be proved in court.

JACKIE'S home is near Sarasota, Fla. The country nearby is snake-infested. There may be found the deadly diamond-backed rattlers.

Well, Jackie and Mickey went out for a walk. Several miles from the house they were making their way across a field when out of the grass came the warning rattle of the snake. It was lunging straight at the lad. In a second its fangs would have struck.

But there was Mickey—heroic Mickey ready to die for his little master. In that second of time the dog had leaped directly in the path of the snake and taken the fangs in his own body.

How did he know? Oh well, Mickey died for Jack.

It took more than a snake to scare off Ming and Skipper, two little chows owned by Mrs. Nate Sable of Portland, Ore. Mrs. Sable has a kennel of fine chows.

She took this particular pair with her on an outing on Mt. Hood. They were roaming through a wood when, out of the trees, came a cougar. It leaped at her with a ferocious snarl.

There they were—a snapping, funny little team of toy chows and a sleek, vicious cougar.

Well, Ming and Skipper to the rescue! Ming grabbed the beast by the leg and felt the fang of the cougar in his ribs. Skipper went for the cougar's throat. The wild beast fled. And with the two bouncing chows at his heels. It must have been a rather laughable spectacle—or was it?

Sheet by sheet, letter by letter, affidavits with solemn notary seals—the glowing records of the dog heroes unfold.

There was Kentucky Boy, in Los Angeles.

Sketches By GEORGE CLARK

Brownie . . . won the 1930 hero award for dogs by pulling his mistress from the path of a rapidly-approaching auto.

Kentucky Boy . . . discovered a fire, and gave the alarm. . . . Actor Hobart Bosworth gave a medal.

"The dog . . . leaped directly into the path of the snake . . . and took the poisonous fangs in his own body."

Nina, the shepherd dog of Miss Sarah Hershey . . . awoke the family, led them out . . . to save an endangered bull.

"Ming grabbed the cougar by the leg . . . Skipper went for its throat . . . Ming carried off one of the cougar's teeth in his hide" . . . but Mrs. Nate Sable, their mistress, shown below with her heroic Chows, was saved.

KENTUCKY BOY is an aire-dale. And in that town there is a building called the Nelson Evans Studio Building. A fire started in the building. Everyone had gone home. About a block away was an automobile park.

Several people were in the park. Suddenly one of them was startled to hear a dog barking at his heels. The dog would bark and run toward the building. Finally, a mechanic who knew dogs decided to follow. He was led to the burning building and turned in the alarm.

The fire chief and Hobart Bosworth, the movie actor, presented him with a fire department medal.

Then there is another story—a different story.

It comes from Winona, Miss. In this southern town lived Cave Brock, a Negro. Cave was a meat cutter. He didn't amount to much in the town, just a tinkering meat cutter, who went around butcher shops getting jobs wherever he could get them. But whenever he cut meat he remembered his best friends—the dogs. His scraps always went to a collection of mongrels who gathered whenever he was at his work. He talked with them and played with them. And when Cave walked about town he always had a collection of pups in his wake.

But there was one dog—Spot. And Spot was Cave's dog and Cave was Spot's man. The other dogs went away after a while only to reappear upon the following morn. But Spot went where Cave went. And one day Cave died.

And Spot was missing from the town.

But when they buried Cave, the townfolk told a strange story. They told of how Spot arrived at the cemetery just as the body was to be laid to rest. They told of how Spot arrived, and with him half of the town's curs. And while the services were being read, the dogs planted themselves just beyond the human-folk and howled a strange dirge that will not soon be forgotten in those parts. Gradually they drifted away.

But after the burial Spot didn't go home.

BACK came word of how the dog was lying, day upon day, on his black master's grave. The attention of the town was attracted to his loyalty, and they brought him food and made him something of a town character. Which, so far as I know, Spot may still be at this moment.

There is Nina, a police dog of Lancaster, Pa., who awakened the family of Sam Hershey in the middle of the night.

First they heard him scratching at the door. Then he would bark and then he would scratch again. When they came down to see what it was all about, Nina ran to the barn door and scratched. They opened the barn door and found a prize bull had been caught in a rope and was being strangled to death.

There's a tough one for the animal psychologists.

Or take a case in Charlotte, Mass., when a mongrel saved the lives of J. D. Franklin and his family. They lived outside town in Mecklenburg County. During the night a fire had started from unknown causes. But the dog awakened them and warned them.

Goldsboro, N. C., reports a case where a dog sent an alarm to the fire department when a warehouse was burning.

Wayne County, North Carolina, reports a dog that saved Joe Smith, a farmer, from an attacking bull.

Butte, Mont., reports a dog that found Tom Fitzpatrick seriously injured in a mountain gulch and brought a rescue crew to his side.

East Windsor, Ont., honors Pat, a dog that died in action, saving three-year-old Richard Coogan from a fire. He awakened the family, and finding the baby in the worst of the fire zone, dashed in and brought the child safely out. But he died from the burns.

MICHAEL LEPORE, 12, Malden, Mass., owes his life to a German shepherd that saved him from drowning by grabbing the lad's bathing suit and keeping him afloat. The suit gave way, but the dog kept the boy's head above water until held came.

Pepper, a collie, saved 21 cows from a cloudburst near Radiola, Mo., when the animals were marooned on an island that was being swept by the flood. Babe, an undersized police dog, saved a family of six from a fire in Oneida, N. Y.

Babe, part police and part collie, a stray picked from the streets, saved Jack de la Casa from drowning in a sewer in St. Louis.

So goes dogdom's roll of honor for the year. Case after case; testimonials, one after another—great piles of them, tell of dogs who saved lives and property and took a pat on the back for their trouble.

The question of whether or not dogs think, reason, or whether their apparently heroic acts are due to the operation of unthinking instinct is not the question here. Is it love of a master or mistress which prompts the canine hero to offer his life for theirs, or is it merely some spontaneous reflex from a savage past? Does the dog understand the risk he takes—does he even understand the danger that confronts master or mistress, or even their property?

Scientists have long debated these questions, but they are questions which, for the present, every person must settle for himself. The tests of science have not proved the case one way or another. And even if they proved it in the negative, no dog-lover would believe them.

Of the heroic acts themselves there can be no question, and it is fitting and proper recognition of these which is the concern of the Dog Hero Award Committee in their New York office building. A pat on the back and maybe a piece of round steak have always been the highest awards in dogdom for the greatest heroism. Now it is to be a perfectly inedible gold medal.

STATE'S FIELD CROPS BOOSTED IN SEPTEMBER

BY ELWOOD SQUIRES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, Oct. 25.—California field crops continued in good condition through September, with production of practically all crops well above the 1929 totals, according to the monthly report of the Federal-State Co-operative Crop Reporting Service.

Corn, grain sorghum and tame hay, hardest hit by the prolonged drought in eastern portions of the United States, all showed substantial gains in California this year, the survey showed.

Indian corn in California will total 2,785,000 bushels for 1930, with 2,545,000 bushels produced in 1929. This crop suffered the greatest loss of any throughout the entire country, the 1930 production being but 2,046,716,000 bushels, a drop of 600,000,000 bushels over 1929.

Rice showed a slight improvement during September and a crop of about 6,270,000 bushels is now anticipated. California was the only important rice state to show an increase in production this year, with the exception of Texas.

Grain sorghum has dropped off somewhat in condition during the past month, but the forecast now stands at 3,904,000 bushels, a substantial gain over 1929, due principally to a larger acreage.

Hops will probably average 1660 pounds per acre, pointing to a total production of 4,980,000 pounds for California, with the estimated United States crop set at 24,382,000 pounds.

Sugar beet condition stood at 86 on October 1, indicating a total production of about 750,000 tons.

Lima bean yield prospects have declined as the season progressed. Weather condition and lateness in crop maturing have delayed harvesting and threshing of the lima. A total production of about 2,590,000 bushels is predicted, divided into 950,000 bags of "standards" and 500,000 bags of "baby" limas. For beans other than limas, the October 1 condition was 79, from which a production of about 2,015,000 bags, or some 3,358,000 bushels is forecast.

White potatoes have a condition of about 83 per cent of normal, with a probable production of 5,145,000 bushels. This is a slight drop over 1929, but not as drastic as the decline for the entire country.

Tame hay, including alfalfa, grain hay, clover, timothy, etc., is estimated at 5,645,000 tons this year, against 5,178,000 tons in 1929. Of this alfalfa accounts for 4,450,000 tons. Production of tame hay throughout the nation dropped nearly 20 per cent this year over last.

Watermelon Wilt Overcome by New Resistant Strain

DAVIS, Oct. 25.—Watermelon wilt, caused by a soil and seed borne fungus, is being overcome as a result of plant breeding work by Dr. D. R. Porter, bacteriologist of the University of California College of Agriculture. Resistant strains that yield well even when ordinary varieties are destroyed, have been developed that promise to overcome the trouble caused by wilt.

Dr. Porter began this work while with the Iowa State College, and coming to Berkeley was permitted to bring seeds of varieties resistant there, to California. These he has found to be resistant here as well, and he has been improving by breeding and selection in work at the Branch of the College of Agriculture and in fields near Lodi.

New State Robot Locates Bollworm

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 25.—The "bug-hunting" robot has arrived. Capable of doing the work of a score or more of sharp-eyed and dextrous inspectors, and actually doing it better, a new mechanical man soon will be employed in California's battle against invasion of the pink bollworm, arch-enemy of the cotton planter. Director of Agriculture G. H. Hecke announces.

The pink boll worm was found to have widely infested cotton districts of Arizona more than a year ago. Federal and state forces have been bent to the herculean task of eradicating this pink destroyer of agricultural wealth ever since. Here in California where cotton is an increasingly important crop, state and federal agencies have to date maintained unrelenting vigil against advance of the pink boll worm over the desert intervening between the infested area and our own acreage.

The robot works over gin trash, and, according to R. W. White in charge of pink boll worm scouting operations for the federal government, is remarkably efficient, finding the pest where the best efforts of many inspectors have had almost negligible results.

MODEL FARMS PAY DESPITE DROUGHT

Nation Wide Adoption of Modern Equipment Is Hel dEssential

AKRON, O., Oct. 25.—The solution of all farm problems is nation-wide adoption of modernized agricultural methods, if the success of one farm here and one at Columbiana, belonging to Harvey S. Firestone sr., tire manufacturer, can be taken as a criterion.

Even with the present season, one of the driest in the state's history, and with other handicaps, the farms have shown exceptional yields. This is attributed chiefly to scientific systems which have been worked out for the farms.

These two farms are not just the hobby of a rich man who wants to find an outlet for his energy. They're real business enterprises, each being operated to pay a profit. They are organized on a business basis and the production and care is so regulated as to keep the farms profitable.

Both farms are known all over the country, for on them experiments are carried out, their results reported to agricultural colleges and experiment stations and finally turned over to farmers.

The "Old Homestead" at Columbiana, where Firestone was born, is one of the most productive farms in the state. Yields of 50 bushels of wheat, 80 bushels of oats and 357 bushels of potatoes have been obtained from one acre. Notwithstanding the extremely dry spell of the past summer, 1800 bushels of wheat were produced on 60 acres of the farm, representing an average of 30 bushels to an acre.

The average yield of the United States over a period of five years is only a little over 14 bushels an acre, while the average for the state is about 17 bushels.

Of the 500 acres on the Columbiana farm, 80 acres were planted to oats. These acres yielded 3500 bushels, or an average of more than 43 bushels to an acre.

The potato crop on the farm this season is expected to exceed the record of 357 bushels to an acre which the farm established several years ago. Although threatened by blight several times, application of sprays two or three times every two weeks has eradicated the disease.

CANADA'S FRUIT

Latest estimates of the commercial apple crop of Canada for 1930 places it at 2,990,109 barrels, of which 1,382,712 barrels will come from British Columbia.

FARM ADVISOR WILL ADDRESS CENTERS SOON

Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg, who returned recently from a trip abroad, has been invited to address several farm centers on his observations.

He studied and observed subtropical fruit culture in Africa, Asia Minor, Europe and Florida. While in Spain he observed their methods of growing oranges, their Mediterranean fruit fly problem and packing house methods.

Co-operative marketing institutions among the farmers of Switzerland, Denmark and Sweden were studied by the advisor. Six weeks of his time was spent in Russia with the International Soils congress, where farming practices throughout the Soviet Union from the Baltic sea to the Caspian and Black seas were under observation.

Agricultural experiment stations were visited in most of the European countries to note some of the advances made in agricultural science, with special reference to fertilization and cultivation practices.

In Florida, Wahlberg visited all the important citrus and avocado growing sections. He found that the intensive campaign waged against the Mediterranean fruit fly last year had resulted in a practical clean up. Between 600 and 700 inspectors, however, are still maintained in the field to be on the watch for any possible new outbreak and to certify orchards that are shipping at the present time.

The coming season's orange crop will be larger than last year's. Avocado production has been materially impaired by the hurricanes of two and four years ago.

STATE CAMPAIGN ON PESTS LAUNCHED

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 25.—Announcement of a specialized campaign to prevent dissemination of agricultural pests and of appointment of D. B. Mackie, senior entomologist of the state department of agriculture, to further this work were made here today.

As the result of an agreement reached by Director of Agriculture G. H. Hecke and Lee J. Strong, chief of the federal plant quarantine and control administration, Mackie has been named a part-time federal agent. His duties will be to determine the commercial applicability of methods of sterilization and disinfection of plants and plant products regulated by federal quarantine. He will continue his state service, however.

Mackie has left for El Paso to begin research for treatment of baled cotton relative to control of pink boll worm. He will confer with S. A. Rohrer, assistant chief of the administration, and Dr. Lon Hawkins, chief of the mechanical division, concerning the program to be attempted.

Fruit Fly Book Issued By U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—An interesting comparison of the effectiveness of natural control of the Mediterranean fruit fly, as practiced in Hawaii for the last 15 years, and artificial methods, as practiced in Florida during 1929, may be drawn from Circular 109-C, a recent publication of the U. S. Department of agriculture, which may be obtained free upon request.

The new publication presents a detailed study of the parasitism of the Mediterranean fly in Hawaii for the period 1922-24, when intensive studies were made by the bureau of entomology. In addition, tables which show the relative abundance of fruit-fly larvae in various host fruits from 1915 to 1924, and the extent of control by parasites in these fruits, are included in the report.

The study shows that the four established natural enemies imported to Hawaii from Australia and South Africa, taken together, have parasitized from 43 to 47 per cent of the fruit-fly larvae.

Tomato Booklet Published By U. S.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25.—Shading tomato plants in the field, either through the use of muslin tents or by growing tall plants such as sunflowers between the rows, has proved the best control measure for tomato yellows, a destructive disease in the western United States, according to the U. S. department of agriculture. Department plant pathologists have studied this disease for a number of years and now report their findings in a new publication of the department. Technical Bulletin 189-T, Experiments on the Control of Tomato Yellows.

Technical Bulletin 189-T may be obtained from the Office of Information, U. S. department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

NEW FACTS ON IRRIGATION TO BE PRESENTED

DAVIS, Oct. 25.—Information gathered over a period of 10 years regarding water requirement of crops and which has been given little notice in publications, will be reported to those attending the short course in irrigation, to be given at the University of California Branch of the College of Agriculture, November 12, 13 and 14. In making this announcement, J. B. Brown, irrigation specialist in the Agricultural Extension Service, says the program will be well balanced, prepared with a view to giving farmers and others interested in agriculture the latest information available on the subject.

Some of this information includes: the use of water by deciduous trees as determined by Prof. F. J. Veihmeyer and A. H. Hendrickson, the use of water by citrus trees as determined by Prof. S. H. Beckett, and the water requirements of cotton, also studied by Professor Beckett.

As a result of the studies and recommendations of the irrigation division of the College of Agriculture, Brown, says, cultural practices in the growth of many crops have been changed considerably. These changes of methods have resulted in marked reductions of costs of production, particularly by the reduction in the amount of cultivation.

The short course will be divided into six half day sessions, with the following topics: soil moisture relations, water requirement of crops, land preparation and irrigation methods, irrigation structures, pumps and underground water, plant and soil moisture relations.

NEW BUTTERMILK METHOD PERFECTED

DAVIS, Oct. 25.—Buttermilk, manufactured from fresh skim milk and cream, is the result of an experiment carried on at the University of California branch of the College of Agriculture. It was announced here today by Director W. L. Howard. The work was done by Dr. C. L. Roadhouse, head of the dairy industry division, and M. J. Fechter, a member of the division. As a result of their studies the dairy industry division has developed a satisfactory product made from pasteurized skim milk, to which cream is added and the mixture churned to form butter particles, resembling natural buttermilk.

"The advantage of this method is that perfectly fresh skim milk and cream are used," says Dr. Roadhouse, "while this is not always possible when buttermilk is prepared from churned cream. The churning of the cream with the skim milk gives a characteristic buttermilk taste, and the addition of the cream to the milk maintains a physical condition in the milk which inhibits foaming during churning and delays the time of the milk wheying off after it reaches the consumer. The presence of the cream during churning also affects the consistency of the buttermilk, giving the finished product a refreshing palatability."

HUSKER CHAMP

When the national corn-husking contest opens at Topeka, Kans., November 14, Walter Olson of Rio, Ill., shown here, will be out to defend the title of America's champion husker which he has held for the past two years. Entries from the corn belt will attempt to lower the national mark set in 1925 by Elmer Williams of Illinois. He husked 35.8 bushels of corn in 80 minutes.

ACTIVITIES OF EXCHANGE DUE FOR INCREASE

During 1931 all Sunkist merchandising activities will be increased 25 to 30 per cent and calls on leading retailers in the United States and Canada are estimated to reach 125,000 compared with 95,000 calls during the past season, according to R. Z. Eller, dealer service manager of the California Fruit Growers' exchange.

"With the large 1930-31 California crop in prospect, plans are being made by the Exchange dealer service department for more extensive merchandising operations," Eller said. "The dealer service force will be increased from the present number of 21 field men to 25 Sunkist merchandising representatives."

"During the 1929-30 season a total of 95,000 calls were made on leading retailers in the United States and Canada and 34,000 orange, lemon and grapefruit displays were installed. Over 440,000 individual pieces of Sunkist display material were used in installing 3,150 displays. The immense value of this poster advertising at the direct point of purchase is impossible to estimate."

Luscious Grapes For Sheep, Hogs

HANFORD, Calif., Oct. 25.—Hogs and sheep are now feeding on luscious, juicy grapes in the vineyards of Kings county.

It may sound like a wanton waste of good grapes, but it is only part of the program of W. E. Martin, in charge of grape buying for the grape control board.

Through Martin, the board released a number of vineyards that the owner could sell the grapes on the vines for livestock feed. The plan not only furnishes excellent

FRUIT EXPERTS ARRANGE TALKS IN RIVERSIDE

BY ERIC E. EASTMAN
Assistant Farm Adviser

The citrus growers of Orange county who are interested in the work being carried on at the citrus experiment station are invited to visit the station under the direction of the agricultural extension service. These annual tours are arranged for the purpose of demonstrating the work being undertaken and to give the growers the opportunity to hear at first hand from the men in charge of the investigations, the latest developments in field and other types of research which directly affect farming operations and practices. Obviously if these men were to attempt to conduct individual growers separately over the station, there would be no time left them for the objects they are endeavoring to accomplish. Therefore, all growers who wish to see the station or the men in charge are invited to do so at this time.

The date set is November 4. The caravan will form at Placentia, facing west and ready to start at 8 a.m. The extension service car will take the lead and proceeding via Placentia avenue and the Anaheim-Olive boulevard, will arrive at Olive in time to leave at 8:30 a.m. Proceeding to Riverside, the group will arrive at the station at 9:50 a.m., in time to park and gather in front of the main building at 10 a.m. for the program of the day, which is as follows:

10 a.m., "The Work of the Citrus Experiment Station," Dr. L. D. Batchelor, director; 10:30 a.m., "Irrigation Observations in Orange County," S. H. Beckett, division of irrigation investigation; 11:30 a.m., "The Present Trend of Fertilizer Trials," Gordon Surr; 12:15 p.m., picnic lunch, bring your own; 1:30 p.m., "The Mediterranean Fruit Fly," Dr. H. J. Quayle, or, "Lemon Diseases of the Mediterranean Countries," Dr. H. S. Fawcett; 2 p.m., "Root Stock Experiments," Dr. H. J. Webber, Dr. E. R. Parker and Dr. F. E. Halma; 3 p.m., "Inspection of Fertilizing Experiments," Dr. L. D. Batchelor and Gordon Surr.

NEW WATER SUPPLY BOOK IS PUBLISHED

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 25.—A state water expert is joint author of a new book, "Water Supply and Utilization," the only text treating the subject from the arid region standpoint.

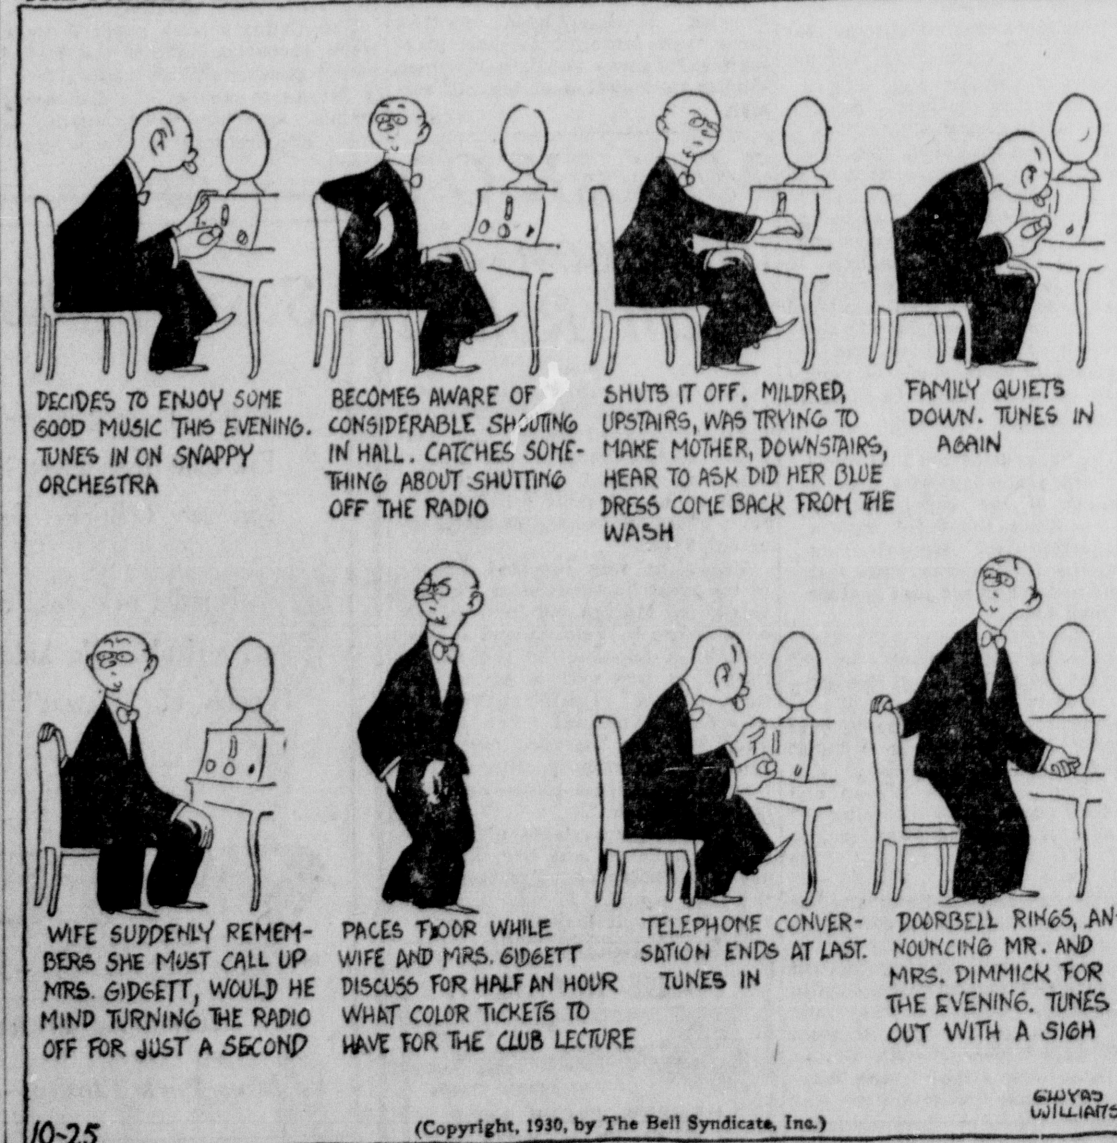

He is Harold Conkling, deputy in charge of water rights, of the state division of water resources. Associated with him in the authorship is Donald M. Baker, consulting engineer.

The book, according to the publishers' announcement, "will serve not only as a text for students but will be of great value to engineers, attorneys, bankers and public officials in the western states who are interested in water development and wish to enlarge their knowledge of its principles and practices."

In addition to grapes eaten by stock, about 2,500 tons have been shipped to by-product factories.

Orange still rules the roost in the Orange county football league but a hectic Friday provided plenty of thrills yesterday when Anaheim was nosed out by the Panthers on a technicality and Excelsior defeated Brea-Olinda on another disputed play which undoubtedly will be protested.

The argument between Orange and Anaheim arose when Rapier, a substitute end, snagged a pass for a touchdown in the last few minutes of play. He dropped the ball, however, when tackled and the officials cancelled the touchdown, leaving the final score 12 to 7. Anaheim contended that Rapier caught the ball and held it long enough to score, which would have given the game to the Colonists, 13 to 12.

It is likely that Coach Carpenter, of Anaheim, will protest the game. Todd of Orange, was the big star, running 40 yards in the first quarter and 50 yards in the second quarter for touchdowns. Riley plunged over the last white line for Anaheim after a spirited rally which featured passes.

In the Brea-Olinda and Excelsior squabble, Coach "Shorty" Smith will protest for Brea to cancel his 7 to 0 defeat. Bingham, quarter, ran 15 yards to a touchdown for Excelsior but dropped the ball when tackled. The officials all disagreed but Excelsior was finally given the score, which was enough to win.

Tustin Wins

Displaying a smashing attack and an almost impregnable line, the Tustin Farmers pulled up to a mathematical tie with Orange for the league leadership by tramping upon the Garden Grove Chilleppers to the tune of a 21 to 0 victory on the Tustin grid.

Dean Benton scored the first lay in the first quarter and Jack Lindsey converted. On the first play of the second quarter, Benton drove four yards to another score and Lindsey again converted.

Penalties cost the Farmers two more touchdowns in the fourth frame because two scores were called back. Garden Grove threatened in the fourth stanza when Hosak, Chillepper quarter, ran wild through the Tustin team but the Farmers stiffened and took the ball on downs on the four-yard line. Benton, fullback, Crafts, quarter, Ritner and Newman, tackles, and Carlson, guard, were outstanding for Tustin, while Hosak and Darte played good ball for Garden Grove.

Huntington Beach drew a bye in the schedule but hooks up with Excelsior next week. The feature spot will be taken by Tustin and Anaheim. Tustin, with one win and one tie will have to defeat the Colonists to keep a clean slate.

Whittier Loses To Santa Barbara 13-6

WHITTIER, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Santa Barbara State college invaded Whittier last night to defeat the Posts 13-6. Treloar skirted end in the second quarter for Santa Barbara's initial touchdown, and a 35-yard pass, Precico to Hickman, in the fourth quarter accounted for the other. Whittier scored in the third with a series of line bucks by Mishburn.

Strategic Plays Formation "W"

Now here's a power play that has not failed once during the present season. Formation "W" calls for a few bucks right over the line—good old-fashioned bucks. For example, Five Bucks puts you under the Yorklan Hat; Eight Bucks will bring you to the Stetson, and that's as far as you need to advance, as by that time you have the game under your hat. This is the crowning play of all, as you're sure to be efficiently and effectively crowned when we tackle you.

Stanford, U. S. C. Clash In Big Game

BETTING EVEN AS EACH TEAM CLAIMS EDGE

By JACQUES D'ARMAND
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

STANFORD STADIUM, Palo Alto, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Ninety thousand football fans from all sections of the Pacific coast were preparing today to invade this huge bowl which this afternoon was to be the arena for one of the west's most important football battles of the 1930 season.

Representing the widely varying schools of coaching the Glenn "Pop" Warner and Howard Jones, the Stanford Indians and University of Southern California Trojans were to take the field with the result of the game obviously hanging on breaks. There was plenty of ready money at even odds on each team, with Southern California backing their favorites, and residents of the San Francisco Bay region and points north placing bets on the Cardinals as a unit.

Stanford stood ready to battle today for a tie, or possible win, in the Pacific coast conference race. Warner's men have not been defeated this year, while the Trojans have lost one start to the Washington State university Cougars, the surprise team of the 1930 season. On the other hand, the Southerners were eager to wipe out, by a victory today, the stain of that one defeat at the hands of Washington State.

The two teams, rivals since U. S. C. forged into the inner circle of coast football, having won two games each out of the last five. The first was a 13-13 tie. A win today would make the season a success for either team, despite the results of other games on their schedule.

The probable starting lineups:

U. S. C.	Pos.	Stanford
W. Cox	QB	Donohue
W. Hall	LT	Tandy (C)
Baker	LGR	Bardin
Williamson	C	Taylor
Shaw	RGL	Heiser
R. Brown	RTL	Bogue

NEW FOOTBALL COACHES MAKE GOOD SHOWING

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Although the football season has some five weeks or so to run, during which time most of the leading eleven will meet their sternest tests, it seems reasonably safe to predict success for many new coaches.

This is unusual, because few jobs are so thankless as that of a first year coach. Surrounded by new faces and new conditions, he is expected to produce a winner right from the start. This, despite the fact, that football teams, like geological formations are not made coach follows a winner he is expected to produce a winner right from the start. This, despite the fact, that football teams, like geological formations are not made coach follows a winner he is expected to produce a winner right from the start.

In the face of all this, a large percentage of "first year" men have made good—thus far at least. Major Ralph Sasse of West Point; Vic Hanson of Syracuse; Fritz Crisler of Minnesota, and Chet Wynn of Auburn, to mention a few, seem destined to complete their first term of office with records that should suit the most exacting old grad or the most zealous freshman.

Sasse, successor of the exceptionally popular "Burr" Jones, had about the toughest assignment of the lot. In addition to starting practice without the presence of many 1929 stars, including the brilliant Chris Cagle, the major was determined to change the entire system of West Point football.

Cal Tech Is Beaten 30-0 By U. C. L. A.

PASADENA, Oct. 25.—(UP)—The Bruins from the University of California at Los Angeles showed improved form last night and defeated the California Institute of Technology 30 to 0 in a game at Rose Bowl.

The Bruins were masters of the situation throughout and failed only in converting after touchdowns. In the five chances offered during the evening they failed each time.

Decker, Bruin half, scored the initial touchdown in the first quarter with a three yard line plunge. The engineers held them in leash until the third quarter, when Captain Ed Solomon passed 20 yards to Wellendorf for the second tally. Forster went over on a line play for another score in this quarter.

Grossman, substitute fullback, scored in the final quarter, as did Forster.

HARRY COOPER LEADS FIELD AT SALT LAKE

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Harry "Lighthouse" Cooper, Los Angeles pro today held a two stroke advantage over his closest rivals in the first annual Salt Lake $5000 open golf tournament.

The genial Californian pro turned in a card of 70 following 13 holes featured by one bad session on the first after a succession of pars and birdies. Cooper played steady golf on the fairways and his putting touch was nearly perfect.

"Two strokes behind 'Lighthouse' came Al and Abe Espinosa, Chicago, Craig Wood of Bloomfield, N. J. and Charles E. Foley, Utah amateur champion whose hole in one on number two was one of the sensations of the first day.

Foley scored his ace on the outgoing round. The shot was made with a spade masher. The ball arched 137 yards to the edge of the green, rolled across the close cropped grass and dropped into the cup. This stroke helped Foley tally a 23 on the outgoing round. His incoming score was 39.

Olin Dutra, Los Angeles, Jimmy Thompson, Colorado Springs, and Harold Long, Denver, are in a three way tie for third place with 74s.

Find Lost Jewel In Hen's Gizzard

ANDERSON, Ind., Oct. 24.—Imagine the surprise of Mrs. Claude Rummell at Ingalls, near here, when she cut open the gizzard of a little black hen which she was preparing for dinner, and found a valuable diamond stone therein.

It was the stone lost from her engagement ring on May 25.

Decision to have the little hen for dinner came after chicken thieves raided the Rummell roost and took every fowl except the hen. In leaving the runty hen behind the thieves overlooked the most valuable bird of the whole lot.

Cypress, undefeated leader of the Harbor Sunday Baseball league will get a real test of its mettle tomorrow when the second place Anapauma Ranchos sweep into Cypress determined to topple the champions and give the field a chance to overtake them.

Both Cypress and Anapauma were hard pressed to take their last games, the tailend Olinda boys scoring Cypress, 5 to 4, and Huntington Beach falling before the Anapaumas 4 to 3 after 10 innings of torrid baseball.

The Santa Ana team plays Anaheim at Olinda while the Associated Oil plays at Laguna Beach. Olinda will make another attempt to break into the win column by traveling to the home field of Huntington Beach.

WISCONSIN INVADERS PURDUE FIELD TODAY

ROSS ADE STADIUM, LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Wisconsin's Badgers, boasting the greatest man power in the west, invaded Lafayette today to pit their Big Ten title hopes against Purdue, 1929 conference champions.

With the two clubs rated on a par in starting strength and the game featuring the Bollermakers' homecoming program, a capacity attendance of 30,000 spectators was assured.

Both teams entertain hopes of winning 1930 championship honors, and with defeat carrying the added sting of elimination from the race, the rival eleven were prepared to "shoot the works" for victory.

Coach "Tex" Oliver's Saints journey to San Diego next Saturday and a special train will transport many of the fans. Both the Hilltoppers and the Saints are tied at the top of the heap and one or the other will emerge a favorite for the Coast league crown.

In the only other Coast league game played yesterday, Woodrow Wilson defeated Glendale, 13 to 6. The Saints trimmed the Wilsonites 23 to 6 two weeks ago.

Poly field will be dark next week for the first and last time this season. While the Saints travel to San Diego, the jaycee Dons will entrain for Phoenix, Arizona, to play an inter-sectional clash with Phoenix junior college. Last year, the Bruins came to Santa Ana outweighing the Dons 20 pounds to the man but went home with the short end of a 56 to 0 score.

A peculiar series of events cost the Saints a touch-down against Pasadena yesterday and was responsible for a 30-yard penalty. Hideo Higashi tossed a high pass to Daneri on the goal line, who finally caught the ball in a swarm of Bulldogs. The umpire ruled that Daneri interfered with the Pasadena backs and the touchdown was cancelled and Santa Ana penalized 15 yards from where the pass was thrown. Coach Oliver then sauntered out on the field to ask the whys and wherefores of the decision and the Saints got 15 more yards of penalty because Oliver failed to ask permission to enter the field.

The Pasadena team that played here yesterday was only a whisper of the usual Bulldog teams. Since the 6-4-4 system was introduced several years ago, the Millionaires have lost their power and are just another football team.

Santa Ana high school now has three league victories on the dope sheet, a 33 to 6 decision over Woodrow Wilson, a 19 to 0 margin over Compton and the 34 to 0 defeat handed Pasadena yesterday. San Diego has played the Wilson and Pasadena teams, also, trimming the Beavers 27 to 0 and Pasadena, 33 to 6.

Captain Al Reboin hung another laurel on his already spacious trophy case with a remarkable performance of ball totting against Pasadena. Reboin was just poison to the Bulldogs with his wide end runs, knife-like thrusts through tackle and drives through center. San Diego claims that Irvine Warbuton, star quarter miler, is just as good and the duel next Saturday should be worth watching.

Abie Booth In Game Vs. Army Today

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Yale is starting Abie Booth against Army today, and 71,000 spectators in the bowl may look for action from the opening kickoff.

Last year, the cadets got the jump on the Bulldog, with Booth fretting on the sidelines, and it wasn't until he was whisked into action that the tide of battle turned definitely in Yale's favor.

Mal Stevens, Eli head coach, announced this time that Booth would be in the lineup from the start. Yale recognizes Army's worth and is going out for an early score.

The odds slightly favor Yale to repeat last year's triumph. Considering the strength of the soldier line and the dash and deception of the backfield, and that victory over Harvard as an indication of what this Army team can do, it looks like a toss up.

NOTRE DAME IN CRUCIAL GAME WITH PANTHERS

BY ROBERT PFARR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Notre Dame and the University of Pittsburgh, two undefeated football eleven and both making a bid for national championship, meet this afternoon in Pitt stadium.

Notre Dame was not defeated last year nor so far this season. Pitt lost one game last year, a post-season contest on the west coast.

The greatest football crowd in the history of the sport here is expected. The throng of almost 75,000 will surpass the previous record made when the Ramblers from South Bend met Carnegie Tech here.

Both teams were expected to present their strongest possible lineups today. Knute Rukkie refused to give any predictions about the lineup for the Irish.

Rukkie intimated Bill Pierce, guard, may be in the initial lineup. Larry Mullins, is along with the squad but only a late change will give him preference over Savoldi for the fullback position.

For Pitt Jim MacMurdo, left end, and Franklin Hood, fullback, although still suffering from inglorious professional of the institution's athletes was voted early today by faculty representatives of five of the conference institutions.

The five schools, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas Aggies and Iowa State will meet Kansas in Athletic contests already scheduled for 1930 but will sever athletic relations at the end of this year.

Action was taken against Kansas after Dr. W. A. Tarr, Missouri representative charged Jim Bausch, Kansas star football halfback was a professional inasmuch as he was receiving $75 a month from a Topeka, Kan., life insurance company.

Dr. Tarr also charged that W. A. Hargis, Kansas head football coach, had recruited football players from Kansas and Missouri high schools in violation of big six rulings.

The Cougars have spent a busy week preparing against the Bears' toothed passing attack, and evidently intend to combat the California team's superior power with as much line strength as can be mustered.

REBOIN. WILSON FAR TOO GOOD FOR BULLDOGS

By "SKY" DUNLAP

"On to San Diego"—This was the war-cry at the Santa Ana high school today following the brilliant and decisive trouncing Coach "Tex" Oliver's football troupe handed the Pasadena high school bulldogs yesterday afternoon at Poly field. The final score was: Santa Ana 34; Pasadena 0.

Year after year, a "jinx" has camped on the trail of each San Diego game and a review of the past eight or ten Hilltopper-Saint battles reveals that one or two points, and at the most one touchdown, have kept the Santa Anas from turning in a single victory.

Coach Hobbs Adams has again molded a wonder team for the border city but the ease with which Oliver's cohorts subdued the Bulldogs Friday bodes no good for the greedy Southerners in the game next Saturday.

Reboin Stars

Captain Al Reboin, super-talented quarterback and one of the most outstanding backs in the country, was again the shining light of the game, although some of the "losser lights" were given a chance and came through with flying colors. In fact, Oliver uncovered some highly valuable ball carriers in Max Wilson, Lynn Chamberlain, Hideo Higashi, Ralph Gordon and others.

Just how effective "Audacious Al" was against the Bulldogs is shown by the fact that he rolled up 151 yards from scrimmage in the first half, scored two touchdowns single-handed, threw a long pass for a third marker, and was a ball packing demon. The first time Santa Ana took possession of the ball, which was on the Saint 35-yard line, Reboin carted the pigskin only six times but the last saunter through the line was for 22 yards and a touchdown. He made 18 yards the first attempt and then in succession, rambled 9, 10, 8, 2 and 22, going over the goal line without being touched. Pangle plunged over the line for the extra point.

Dashes 32 Yards

The same performance was repeated in the second quarter, with Reboin getting some assistance from Hideo Higashi. The Saints started on the 27-yard line and Reboin tore off 32 yards around end. He then shot a 22-yard pass to Jim Daneri, and followed with a 10-yard trip through tackle to the Pasadena 12-yard line. Higashi hit center for six yards and Reboin went over for the score, again standing up with noone near him. Pangle's kick was blocked.

A second team took the field for Santa Ana at the half and proceeded to riddle the Pasadena line for three more touchdowns. Higashi intercepted a pass to start a drive in the third quarter, with Wilson finally scoring after he and Higashi had pushed the ball 64 yards. Pangle dropped a perfect goal, as he did on the next two tries.

Higashi Scores

Late in the last stanza, Reboin was reinserted into the fracas and on the first play, started a wide sweep around end, only to sizzle a scorching pass 30 yards down the field to Higashi, who speared the ball on the dead run and ran the remaining 10 yards to a touchdown.

Bears and Huskies Clash In North

SEATTLE, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Despite the dubious prospect for fair weather for the game this afternoon, a large crowd was expected to turn out from the annual battle between University of California and Washington.

The Cougars have spent a busy week preparing against the Bears' toothed passing attack, and evidently intend to combat the California team's superior power with as much line strength as can be mustered.

Macias K. O.'s Johnson In Sixth Round

Fighting a return engagement before Ventura fight fans last night, "Wildman" Macias, Los Alamitos welter, knocked out Bubber Johnson, colored fighter, in the sixth round of their scheduled 10 round bout, according to word received here.

The fight was reported as one of the most hectic seen at Ventura this year. Macias and Johnson met once before in Ventura and Macias won by a knockout in the second round. It was such a whale of a fight that a return engagement was only a natural. The "Wildman" was far too good for Johnson last night having him on the floor several times before he finally took the count.

At San Diego last night, Joe Goedders, Santa Ana boy, knocked out Bud Baker of Long Beach in the first round. It was fast and rugged while it lasted.

MUSICAL SHOW WITH BIG PLOT
EXPECTANT HIT

"Love in the Rough," which will come Monday to the Fox West Coast theater as a new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer offering, is a pictureization of the stage musical comedy, "Spring Fever," by Vincent Lawrence.

The production is of particular interest in featuring Robert Montgomery, whose rapid ascent to film popularity has resulted in rumors to the effect that he will be starred in his next picture.

The feminine lead is played by Dorothy Jordan, who deserves her erstwhile costume roles to depict a modern debutante who forgives her suitor for being penniless when he wins a golf championship.

The picture, filmed almost all out-of-doors, with beautiful scenic backgrounds on fashionable golf links, presents a new form of film entertainment, being strictly a musical comedy, yet devoid of chorus intrusions and other devices and licenses of the stage. It includes seven song hits, the first contributed to the screen by Miss Fields and McHugh. These numbers are "I'm Learning a Lot From You," "I'm Home and Tell Your Mother," "I'm Doing That Thing," "Like Kelly Can," "One More Waltz," "Dance, Fool, Dance," and an opening chorus. The song-writing team are perhaps best known for their "Blackbird" revue songs and "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby."

The plot concerns a young shipping clerk who is taken to a fashionable golf club to coach his cranky employer during a golf match. He falls in love with a millionaire's daughter and enters the contest himself. He is revealed as a pauper but manages to win the match and the girl at the same time.

'LOVE IN ROUGH' STARS

Robert Montgomery and Dorothy Jordan in a scene from "Love in the Rough" which comes to the Fox West Coast theater for three days, starting Monday. The picture is filled with latest song hits of the day.

Nancy Carroll and Fredric March will be seen together for the first time in a talking picture when "Laughter" comes to the Fox Broadway theater on Monday next for a three night run.

In this dynamic drama of modern love in a big city, March is seen as the pianist-composer lover who forsakes Miss Carroll to study abroad. Miss Carroll is seen as the actress who weds an old, but wealthy, man as a retaliation for the coldness of her first lover.

Miss Carroll and March have often expressed desire to be cast in the same production, feeling that they could provide an interesting blending of mutually agreeable talents.

Paramount helped them to a realization of their ambition by casting them in "Laughter" and the result as seen at the Fox Broadway theater, will show the pair to have been correct in their prediction of a dramatic success. "Laughter" is rated by preview critics who saw it several weeks ago, as one of the big "smashes" of the year. And when critics call a dramatic production a "smash," they are being very enthusiastic.

"Ladies Must Play," the Columbia comedy drama of sophisticated society life is scheduled to open at the Walker's State theater Sunday, where it will run for three days.

The cast is headed by Dorothy Sebastian and Neil Hamilton. Dorothy Sebastian is one of screen-dom's most popular leading women. She established an enviable reputation for herself as a featured player in those two popular films of modern youth — "Our Dancing Daughters" and "Our Modern Maidens." Her most recent screen portrayal was the feminine lead in "Hell's Island," the Columbia film co-starring Jack Holt and Ralph Graves, film's famous buddies.

Neil Hamilton, who lately appeared in the Fu Manchu films, plays the leading role opposite Dorothy Sebastian. An excellent supporting cast including Natalie Moorhead and John Holland play featured roles. "Ladies Must Play" is unfolded against elaborate backgrounds with women gorgeously gowned and ultra modern settings figuring prominently. Raymond Cannon directed.

FRENCH ACES VISIT
PARAMOUNT LOTS

France's Atlantic-spanning heroes of the air yesterday were paid official honor by the air-minded women of America.

With colorful ceremony at the Paramount studios in Hollywood, where Coste and Bellonte were guests, Mrs. Ulysses Grant McQueen, founder and president of the Women's Aeronautical Association of America, presented the two flyers with a beautiful silver trophy on behalf of her organization.

Following the presentation Coste and Bellonte made a tour of the studios.

Tearing right into anything that looks like excitement and adventure is Rex Lease in "Wings of Adventure," the Tiffany talking production seen for the first time here at Walker's State theatre yesterday. It ends tonight. Right in step—though an awkward and funny step it is—is Clyde Cook, who takes his adventures so seriously that they are a riot of fun for the audience. Armida, petite and adorable, is the heroine whose unhappy plight is responsible for a daring flight that heaps excitement on excitement.

Richard Thorpe's direction of "Wings of Adventure" has aimed at speed and thrills and succeeded. The story by Harry Frazier takes Dave Kent, an aviator, and Skeets Smith, a mechanic whose motto is "I fix them, you fly them!" and lands them in a bandit's nest when the motor of the airplane in which they are flying goes dead.

Patrons of the Fox West Coast theater are given special inducements on every Sunday, according to an announcement made by Norman Sprowl, Fox theater manager here.

Each Sunday starting at 1 p.m. a special feature all-talking picture is shown and then at 2:30 p.m. the regular advertised feature for the day is shown. All this is given for the price of one show, and as it comes on Sunday the seven acts of vaudeville also are seen, making it possible for a person to be continually entertained from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. for one admission ticket.

"LAUGHTER" IS STORY OF LOVE
IN LARGE CITY

Nancy Carroll and Fredric March will be seen together for the first time in a talking picture when "Laughter" comes to the Fox Broadway theater on Monday next for a three night run.

In this dynamic drama of modern love in a big city, March is seen as the pianist-composer lover who forsakes Miss Carroll to study abroad. Miss Carroll is seen as the actress who weds an old, but wealthy, man as a retaliation for the coldness of her first lover.

Miss Carroll and March have often expressed desire to be cast in the same production, feeling that they could provide an interesting blending of mutually agreeable talents.

Paramount helped them to a realization of their ambition by casting them in "Laughter" and the result as seen at the Fox Broadway theater, will show the pair to have been correct in their prediction of a dramatic success. "Laughter" is rated by preview critics who saw it several weeks ago, as one of the big "smashes" of the year. And when critics call a dramatic production a "smash," they are being very enthusiastic.

'LADIES MAN' TO BE MADE IN NEW YORK

"Ladies Man," the mystery romance by Rupert Hughes that recently was acquired by Paramount for talking pictures, will be filmed at the company's New York studios it was announced by B. P. Schulberg, managing director of production.

At the same time, Schulberg stated that Lotar Mendes, maker of "Dangerous Curves" and other recent productions, has been assigned to direct "Ladies Man."

Paul Lukas, Hungarian actor whose most recent appearance was in "Anybody's Woman," with Ruth Chatterton and Clive Brook, is to play the stellar role in the Rupert Hughes story. His part is that of a society Don Juan and paid lover who becomes seriously embroiled in a heart affair with a wealthy woman.

Bartlett Cormack, author of "The Racket," is writing the screen play for "Ladies Man."

200 Studio Workers
Off for Sand Dunes

Bound for Guadalupe, California, where they will film scenes of "Morocco" among the sand dunes, 200 film players and technicians from the Paramount studios left from Hollywood last night. Heading the players in the company are Gary Cooper, Marlene Dietrich and Adolphe Menjou. Josef von Sternberg, the director, is in charge of the party.

Members of the unit boarded a special train at Glendale which was to take them direct to their destination. Camels occupied a special car.

The Guadalupe location is the third for this production. A Moroccan city was built at the Paramount ranch thirty miles from Hollywood and many of the scenes were filmed there. The company will be away from Hollywood four or five days.

'MAYBE IT'S LOVE'
AT FOX BROADWAY

"Maybe It's Love," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone production which was shown for the first time at the Fox Broadway theater yesterday is one of the most enjoyable college pictures we have seen. The story is gay, the players are good, and there are some highly interesting and thrilling sequences.

It is the delightful tale of a shy little co-ed who changes her whole manner and becomes the most alluring flirt on the campus. She does it all for dear old Alma Mater, the net result of her charm being that a whole "all-American" team is lured to Upton college and Upton wins the big game for the first time in 11 years.

The "all-American" team is a genuine one and each boy proves himself a good actor as well as a gridiron star. They have been recruited from the star selection of Grantland Rice and the New York Sun. Joan Bennett is lovely and convincing as the co-ed and James Hall is splendid in the leading role opposite Joan. Joe E. Brown takes excellent care of the comedy, ably assisted by Laura Lee.

AIRPLANE COMEDY
ENDS RUN TONIGHT

Tearing right into anything that looks like excitement and adventure is Rex Lease in "Wings of Adventure," the Tiffany talking production seen for the first time here at Walker's State theatre yesterday. It ends tonight. Right in step—though an awkward and funny step it is—is Clyde Cook, who takes his adventures so seriously that they are a riot of fun for the audience. Armida, petite and adorable, is the heroine whose unhappy plight is responsible for a daring flight that heaps excitement on excitement.

Richard Thorpe's direction of "Wings of Adventure" has aimed at speed and thrills and succeeded. The story by Harry Frazier takes Dave Kent, an aviator, and Skeets Smith, a mechanic whose motto is "I fix them, you fly them!" and lands them in a bandit's nest when the motor of the airplane in which they are flying goes dead.

On this page will be found pictures of the Huntington Art Gallery at San Marino, California, and also pictures of noted paintings which hang upon its walls. This library and art gallery is the gift of Henry E. Huntington and was donated for the purpose of maintaining a free public library and art gallery, museum and park, for the advancement of learning the arts and sciences, and to promote public welfare. It was opened in 1928 and since that time more than a quarter of a million people have passed through the building. Besides this, students in steadily increasing numbers are carrying on their work among the library's collection of rare books and manuscripts. It is a place it will pay you to visit.

SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1930

Hallow'en Witches Hold Gay Revels
At Gift Shower

Miss Dorothy Mayhew's artistic ability was well-expressed last night, in a delightful party which she and her mother, Mrs. L. W. Mayhew, joined to give as a compliment to Miss Lizetta Phillips, one of the popular brides-elect of the city. A dozen guests were bidden to the Mayhew home at 1009 South Main street, and all exclaimed over the striking manner in which the Hallow'en motif had been adapted to the decorative plans of the mother and daughter hostesses. Quantities of tawny dahlias lent themselves admirably to the effect, while adorning walls and curtains, were the cleverest of cut-outs in whose designing, the hostesses had been assisted by Miss Helen Glancy, one of the art teachers in the city school. All the lights were shielded by jack o'lantern faces, while black tapers in orange holders, and orange tapers in black, completed the soft lighting effect. Bridge was played, and scores, tallied on Hallow'en cards, revealed Miss Margaret Rust as high and Miss Georgia Belle Walton as low in scoring. Miss Rust was presented with a pair of Italian cut-work linen towels with colored applique designs, while a single towel in the same lovely linen, consoled Miss Walton. A guest prize of a graceful vase in ebon crystal was awarded Miss Phillips.

Asked to the dining-room, the guests found the Hallow'en effect enhanced by attractive table appointments, while dark green draperies hung at the windows, were covered with quaint pumpkin and witch figures, the procession continuing around the walls. Centering the long table was an ornamental tray of autumn fruits, whereas glossy purple avocados, orange persimmons, bright red apples and pomegranates, golden bananas and oranges, and cool green grapes were mingled in striking array, the whole affair nestled in flaming maple leaves sent to the hostesses by friends in New York.

The two-course supper menu featured with the sweets, a chocolate pie that was truly a confection, with its crown of whipped cream, maraschino cherries and pecan nuts. As the guests lingered over the sweets, Miss Phillips was called back to the living room, where, it was explained by Mrs. Mayhew, a messenger had left a fascinating basket, covered with fringed crepe paper in three tones of yellow. Within were nestled packages tied with autumnal colors, and containing a wealth of lovely gifts in a wide variety, chosen by the assembled guests.

Sharing the hospitality of Mrs. Mayhew and Miss Mayhew, were the honorees, Miss Phillips, the latter's mother, Mrs. Charles E. Phillips; Miss Georgia Belle Walton, Miss Katherine Kirven, Miss Kathryn Kilbourne, Miss Juanita Ahern, Miss Mollie Mosher, Miss Margaret Rust, Mrs. Jack Kahler, Miss Della Phillips, Miss Helen Glancy and Mrs. George A. Garfield.

Elks' Annual Roll Call Announced

The Elks' annual roll call meeting, always a much anticipated event, will be held Tuesday evening, October 28 at eight o'clock, and will feature a most promising entertainment. Initiation of candidates will precede the program. Von and Davis, black face comedians, will give entertaining numbers, and Hadji-Ali, known as the "Human Volcano," will give what is claimed to be the only act of its kind in the world. An appetizing supper will conclude the events of the evening, and all visiting Elks are invited to share the affair.

Plans Considered
At W. B. A. Meet

Plans for entertainments throughout the year were made yesterday when members of the Women's Benefit association met with Mrs. E. R. Curtis, 222 South Main street. About 18 members were present and following the business session of the afternoon, refreshments were served.

WEDDED TODAY IN SAN DIEGO

Mrs. Adrian Marks was the charming blonde bride in a quiet wedding ceremony which took place at high noon today in San Diego. She was formerly Miss Blanche Horton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl R. Horton of Tustin. The young people are deferring their honeymoon until later in the year and will return after tomorrow, to the pleasant home at 1544 West Washington avenue, which is all in readiness for them to start housekeeping at once. —Thompson Photographic Artists.

Church Choral Club Held Business and Social Session

Their usual rehearsal was combined with a social time yesterday afternoon when members of the Choral club of the First Methodist church, with Mrs. Harry Hayes as director, were entertained in the home of Mrs. R. L. Knowlton, 2209 Greenleaf street. Mrs. Sam Long assisted Mrs. Knowlton as co-hostess.

The afternoon was especially enjoyable, and refreshments were served as a conclusion to the pleasure of the day. A Hallow'en motif was employed, and was evidenced in nut-cups and other table appointments.

Those present, other than the hostesses, Mrs. Long and Mrs. Knowlton, were Mesdames W. R. Freeman, Howard Wassum, Ira Hallman, M. H. Dant, O. E. Klockentger, W. J. Sebastian, Harry Wetherill, Hulda Ulrich, Harry Hayes, Etta Grace, Dorothy Hayes, Frances A. Gardiner, Ben Patton, Catherine Halderman, W. D. Finn, and the Mesdames Grace Grigsby and Daisy Williams.

Monthly Gathering Was Event of Past Week

About 32 Royal Neighbors of this city attended the monthly district meeting in Bellflower Thursday evening, when delegates from the 9 camps were present. These included members from Lomita, Long Beach, Huntington Beach, Santa Ana, Laguna Beach, Costa Mesa, Orange, Anaheim and Fullerton. Over 200 Royal Neighbors attended.

Santa Ana orated, Mrs. Clara Blackwell, gave part of the initiation work, and Mrs. Nettie Scott of Long Beach gave secret duties. A well-planned program followed the business session. At a late hour an appetizing refreshment course was served, with all appointments carrying out in the Hallow'en motif.

The next monthly meeting will be held in Fullerton November 25.

Marks-Horton Nuptials Took Place Today
In San Diego

Much interest on the part of a large circle of friends in this community was attached to the wedding today in San Diego, of Miss Blanche Ann Horton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl R. Horton of Tustin, and Charles Adrian Marks, son of Judge and Mrs. Emerson J. Marks, of this city and San Diego. The young people left early this morning for the southern city where the ceremony was scheduled to take place at high noon in the First Presbyterian church, with the pastor, the Rev. Roy C. Hamilton, reading the service.

Miss Horton's blonde loveliness found its perfect setting in the smart ensemble in black and white, which was her choice for her bridal costume. All dress accessories were in harmony, and a corsage of gardenias and freesias added the final charming touch to her appearance.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Marks were to remain in San Diego over the week end, returning to this city in order for Mr. Marks to resume rehearsals with the Community Players as he has the important role of "Hastings" in the forthcoming production of "She Stoops to Conquer," to be given in Ebell auditorium Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of next week.

They will go at once to the pretty home awaiting them at 1544 West Washington avenue, where they will be in readiness to greet their young friends after the first of November.

Mr. Marks is a native son of California, representing the third generation of native Californians. He is a graduate of Fullerton union high school, continuing his education at University of Oregon. He is sales manager for the Wilson Perfume company of this city.

His bride graduated from Tustin union high school and has been doing secretarial work in this city. She is a member of Tustin American Legion auxiliary, serving her chapter as corresponding secretary.

Y. W. Candle-lighting Ceremony Announced

The always beautiful and impressive candle-lighting ceremony of the Y. W. C. A. will be held next Monday night at the junior college "Y" hut following the regular pot-luck supper at 6:30 o'clock. This service is for the purpose of giving full recognition to all new members of the organization.

Miss Elisabeth Hurd, vice president and membership chairman, is in charge of the affair. Miss Hurd has secured Mrs. Moffett Rhodes as speaker of the evening and Miss Joanna Day for several flute numbers.

For the ceremony all of the officers will be attired in white or light colored dresses and will light the candles for the new members. Officers of the association are Miss Vernell Butler, Miss Elisabeth Hurd, Miss Joanna Day, Miss Geraldine Cole, Miss Juliette Taylor, Miss Alice Myers, Miss Elva Cook, Miss Jean Anderson, Miss Elizabeth Riniker, Miss Evelyn Parks, Miss Helen Estock, Miss Audrey Teel, Miss Marian Parsons and Mrs. John Tessmann, Miss Mable Whiting and Miss Zena Leck, advisors.

Plans for a Y. W. C. A. retreat are now being completed and the affair will be held at Camp Emma Otis near Madame Modjeska's home on October 31, November 1 and 2.

Betrothal News Was Surprise Feature Of Party

Anticipating a delightful evening in the Phillip Blower home on Poinsettia avenue Thursday night when they were bidden to honor the birthday anniversaries of Duke and Charles Blower, twin sons of the home, guests were surprised to learn that the affair served to announce the engagement of Miss Julia Nissen and Duke Blower. Mrs. Blower and her daughter, Miss Irene Blower, were hostesses.

Rook was the diversion of the evening, at the conclusion of which it was revealed that Miss Lucille Bernann and John McCoy scored low while Mr. and Mrs. Ray Walworth were consoled. Lovely bouquets in Hallow'en colors decked the home, and provided an appropriate setting for the refreshment course with table appointments continuing in the chosen color scheme.

At each place was a huge black bow of ribbon, which when untied disclosed the wedding date for "Julia and Duke" as December 14. This was a complete surprise to the assembled guests.

Miss Nissen, the bride-elect, found within the folds of her ribbon bow, a beautiful diamond ring. When the excitement which followed the interesting news had somewhat subsided, Mrs. Fred Hein, accompanied by Mrs. James Hughes, sang "All for You." Those sharing the delightful evening with Mrs. Blower and Miss Blower, the hostesses, were Miss Julia Nissen, Duke Blower and Charles Blower, and the Mesdames Blanche Thompson, Dorothy Hurd, Lydia Fisher, Elizabeth Gilmore, Lucille Bernann, Violet Palmer, Frances Kaudson, Mr. and Mrs. Fayette Bitcher, Mr. and Mrs. James Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hein, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Walworth, Huested Snow, Victor Morrison, Millard Beemer, James Eudaley, Lloyd Smith, John McCoy, Miss Faye Sortze and Ellis Hillyard of Orange, Miss Frances Hein of Anaheim, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hein of Garden Grove.

Friendship Club Met Recently

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Miles were hosts to members of the Friendship club on a recent evening, entertaining in their home on Ball road, in Hansen. Five hundred was the game of the evening, at the conclusion of which Mrs. Strickley and M. R. Osborn were awarded attractive gifts for high scores and Miss Vera Long and Mr. Overton for second high.

A refreshment course was served at a late hour, and was followed by musical numbers. Those present other than Mr. and Mrs. Miles, were Mr. and Mrs. Strickley, Mr. and Mrs. Cornstock, Mr. and Mrs. Michail, Mr. and Mrs. Kietzmann, Fullerton; Mr. and Mrs. Osborn, of Placentia; Mr. and Mrs. Helen Kling, Miss Agnes McKinstry, Miss Hazel Hushman, Paul Wright, Miss Louise Maloney, Miss Gladys Earley, Frederick Elliott and Edgar M. Flowers, advisor.

COUNTY CLUB FEDERATION HAS SUCCESSFUL MEETING

Attended by a gratifying success, yesterday's nineteenth semi-annual convention of the Orange County Federation of Women's clubs, held in Costa Mesa with the Friday Afternoon club as hostess organization, attracted a large crowd of interested and progressive women from all sections of the county. All were agreed that the program was a valuable and entertaining one, and that the Mesa clubwomen were delightfully hospitable, offering one of the pleasantest convention sessions in the history of the federation.

Business sessions were held in the Community church where Ray Adkinson, member of the Santa Ana high school faculty and nominee for the post of county school superintendent, was presented at the morning session, speaking on "Growth Through Education."

"In vocational training, dealing with the material, the academic, and the aesthetic, are all necessary for the mental development and the future happiness of each individual student," declared the speaker in stressing educational needs.

Mr. Adkinson stated that it is necessary for adults to appreciate both the vocations and the arts, that the children may grow up to know each side, and have a foundation and an objective in life. "Do not leave the solution of educational problems to the profession of teachers alone, as they represent only a small minority of the public. Keep in mind the purpose of education—the child," he concluded.

President Spies, Mrs. Joseph Thurston of Laguna Beach, president of the county federation, gave an interesting and educational talk during the luncheon hour at the clubhouse. The theme of the convention, "Growth through understanding" was beautifully exemplified by vivid descriptions of countries, people and their customs and beautiful buildings as viewed by Mrs. Thurston during a three months' trip abroad. Mrs. Thurston stated "To know people of other nations is to understand them, and understanding is a study towards peace."

"Snapshots Abroad" was the theme of an entertaining and in-

A PAIR OF CHARMING COMMUNITY PLAYERS

In Miss Margaret Gaebe (left) and Miss Mabel Pruitt (right) Santa Ana Community Players' association boasts two unusually talented and charming younger members who will each have prominent part in the first production of the 1930-31 season, "She Stoops to Conquer," by Oliver Goldsmith, to be given in Ebell auditorium October 30, 31 and November 1. Miss Gaebe plays the role of "Miss Hardcastle" and Miss Pruitt that of "Miss Neville."

College Press Club Holds Successful
Treasure Hunt

Clues leading all the way from Garden Grove to Irvine park, Eddie Martin's Airport, and the junior college campus, were followed by the treasure seekers of the Press club of Santa Ana Junior college last night when they held a treasure hunt.

Lucky enough to find the sought for prize were Miss Audrey Teel and Harold H. Ay who were the first to arrive on the scene of the treasure, which was on the flag pole on the campus and proved to be a large bar of candy.

Following the hunt all members adjourned to the home of Miss Teel where dancing was enjoyed and refreshments served the hungry seekers after treasure.

As some doubted the honesty of the successful pirates, a trial was held in which the defendants were found guilty and punished accordingly.

Journalists and their guests present were John "Sky" Dunlap, president, Bill Cowley, Miss Ruth Miller, Oran Asa, Miss Helen Mayes, Willard Francis, Harold Harvey, Herman Hoch, Harley Vahl, Miss Betty James, Miss Ruth Gardner, Miss Gladys Lloyd, Miss Grace Lloyd, Bob Deufree, Al Forney, Bill Warren, Miss Margery Adams, Miss Audrey Teel, Miss Helen Kling, Miss Agnes McKinstry, Miss Hazel Hushman, Paul Wright, Miss Louise Maloney, Miss Gladys Earley, Frederick Elliott and Edgar M. Flowers, advisor.

Two Interesting Girls Who Will Appear In Community Play

Since Miss Margaret Gaebe and Miss Mabel Pruitt are both keenly interested in drama, and have taken part in many plays, one-acts, and dramatic sketches in school, church and Community Players circles, it seems especially pleasant that they should be given prominent roles in "She Stoops to Conquer," famous Oliver Goldsmith comedy drama to be given next week by Santa Ana Community Players, under the direction of Gladys Simpson Shafer.

Miss Pruitt, who plays the part of "Miss Neville," is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pruitt, 1010 West Sixth street. She is a Santa Ana high school graduate, finishing with the class of 1924. Since completing school she has continued her studies in drama and expression, however, and finds time, in her duties in the recorder's office of the courthouse, to gratify her love for traveling.

Wrycende Maegden, that interesting club of younger business women of the city, claims much of Miss Pruitt's attention as well, and she takes an active part in its business administration and social life.

The two charming girls are distinctly opposite in type, for while Miss Pruitt is a pronounced blonde, Miss Gaebe has soft chestnut curls and dark eyes. The latter is also active in Wrycende Maegden, and is a student of drama and expression under Gladys Simpson Shafer. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Gaebe of 212 East Chestnut avenue, and a graduate of Polytechnic high school with the class of 1925, following that with a year at junior college. She is secretary to the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Last summer Miss Gaebe also devoted to travel, and with the Misses Betty Wiswall and Betty Cleary, visited a succession of large American cities in a comprehensive trip through the north and east coast to the Atlantic seaboard.

Miss Gaebe takes an active part in the Grace Rowley chapter, that First Presbyterian group of young women who play such a prominent part in church affairs. Her musical talent also gives her entry to Phi Zeta sorority, the Santa Ana chapter of a national music sorority.

The Rev. A. F. Hesse, local pastor, gave the invocation. Community singing, led by Mrs. Walter Roas of Anaheim, county music chairman, with Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake, official accompanist, was a happy portion of the morning session, following the salute to the flag, as led by Mrs. Arthur Anderson, of Anaheim, county chairman of Citizenship. Many songs sent in by the various clubs are to be compiled into a federation song book.

Musical Events
Mrs. Anderson paid a tribute to the Friday Afternoon club chorus, stating that this is the first club chorus in this county, the county she hopes will be known as the "Singing County."

Mrs. A. P. Nelson, president of the Costa Mesa Friday Afternoon club gave words of welcome, followed by a song of welcome by the home club chorus. Mrs. E. E. Smith, vice president, responded. The club chorus consisted of 25 voices, with Mrs. M. O. Wells, as organizer, Mrs. Ruth McKenzie, director; Mrs. Harry Schick, whistler, and Mrs. Belle Gresham, accompanist. The chorus also sang a group of numbers, in appreciation to Mrs. Thurston, during the luncheon; and others at the opening of the afternoon session.

Those present other than Mrs. Thurston were Mrs. Jo Oman, Mrs. Errol Barnes, Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. F. W. Bergendorf, Mrs. Delbert Johnson, Mrs. William Kintz, Mrs. Adolph Erickson and Miss Verena Bailey.

Housewarming Was Surprise Affair
Of Thursday

Members of Third Household Economics section of the Ebell society proved themselves clever indeed on Thursday afternoon when they succeeded in surprising Mrs. F. M. Robinson, and giving a housewarming in her new home at 320 Santa Clara avenue. Mrs. Henry Walters and Mrs. E. H. Prince called on the honoree, and kept her safely at home until the remainder of the guests arrived.

Having been duly escorted through the rooms of the new residence, where Mr. and Mrs. Robinson have been established for about a month, the clubwomen enjoyed an interesting social time. Mrs. W. B. Risk, leader of the section, presented the honoree with a handsome silver sugar and cream set on behalf of the members. A tempting refreshment course was served at a late hour, and Mr. Robinson arrived home in time to share this delightful feature of the afternoon.

Those present, other than Mrs. Robinson, were Mesdames F. L. Andrews, A. N. Cox, B. E. Cook, C. F. Crose, G. M. Bacon, C. F. Bennett, E. T. Battey, A. C. Howers, G. H. Dehson, E. L. Morrison, Stella Menges, E. H. Prince, F. T. Preble, C. W. Ralston, W. S. Rose, W. B. Risk, Charles Seaman, J. B. Stewart, W. B. Williams, J. H. Walker, Henry Walters, J. E. Kellogg and Ben Kellogg.

Bridge Club Held Pleasant Meeting

J. M. L. Bridge club members held an enjoyable session Thursday afternoon, meeting in the home of Mrs. T. F. McDonald, 1002 West Chestnut avenue. Chrysanthemums, both large and small, were used in profusion throughout the rooms.

In the diversion of the afternoon Mrs. Neva Guthrie of Whittier, scored high and Mrs. Roy Silkwood second. Refreshments were served late in the day.

Those present, other than Mrs. McDonald, were Mesdames John Lewis, Docia Jasper, Hugh Parks, Catherine Read, Fannie Woodfill, Roy Silkwood, of this city; Harvey Bennett of El Toro; Mrs. Grace Turner and Mrs. Neva Guthrie, of Whittier.

Church Home Gathering Attracts Hundreds Of Members

Although many unique and delightful social affairs have found a happy setting in the parlors of the United Presbyterian church in the years since its founding, yet members were all agreed that nothing had ever approached in charm and sheer enjoyment, the "Old Home Gathering" which last night attracted over 300 members and friends to the church building on East Sixth street, where a delicious dinner menu ushered in the entertainment events of the evening.

In planning for the party, S. S. Finley, Mrs. Scott Torrens, Mrs. E. T. McFadden and Mrs. C. Emmett Raitt formed a capable committee, assisted by scores of interested aides. A hostess group greeting the arrivals in the church vestibule, set the keynote of the evening by their quaint costumes of an earlier day, one of the loveliest of which was the bridal gown worn by Mrs. William H. Smart half a century ago, and donned for this modern occasion, by Mrs. W. H. McPeak, wife of the pastor of the church. Others greeting the guests in charming garb of "ye olden time," were Mrs. O. S. Johnston, Mrs. William Smart, Miss Lula B. Finley and E. C. Lukens.

Long tables in the dining room were spread with rare old Irish linen dinner cloths, with china and silver reminiscent of a by-gone day, and guests enjoyed gazing at the towering cake plates, the silver "castors," and quaint designs which were heirloom possessions of many of the members.

The tables each had four hosts and hostesses, all costumed to correspond with the theme of the evening. These numbered Mrs. William Smart, Miss Lula Finley, Messrs. John Kuyper and T. C. Eisele; Mesdames John McAuley, Martin Warren and Messrs. James E. Armstrong and C. E. Harris; Mesdames Frank Andrews, Amos Cox and Messrs Ray Millman and J. A. Porter; Mesdames John McFadden, J. T. Raitt and Messrs. Cornelius Beauders and W. P. Head; Mesdames Arthur McFadden, W. H. McPeak and Messrs. C. E. Lukens and Will Lindsay; Mesdames W. W. Hoy, Herbert Walker and Messrs R. R. Smith and Rev. Milford Tidball; Mesdames O. S. Johnston, E. H. Prince and Messrs John Henderson and A. G. Finley; Mesdames W. R. McBurney, A. J. Smiley and Messrs. T. Barry Warne and C. C. Dunbar.

The appetizing menu was served by cleverly costumed waiters and waitresses who included Messrs. and Mesdames E. T. McFadden, Don Hillyard, R. Carson Smith, Carlyle Dennis, W. Harold Finley, Paul Eby, Paul Olmstead, T. Gray Johnston, Harry Woodward, Wendell Hill, Harold W. Finley, Messrs. C. E. Elmore, W. W. Hoy and Mrs. Jessie Johnson, members of Mr. W. W. Hoy's Bible school class.

Nor did the evening's festivities end with the conclusion of the dinner, for guests remained to enjoy a further social mingling, and a most pleasing program which featured several talented artists.

On this program, Mrs. Jessie Johnson presented several beautiful solos, followed by other equally enjoyable songs by James Lukens, young Miss Betty Ann McAuley and Betty Barkman, and generous encores from each entertainer.

Etchison Home Was Scene of Meeting

Mrs. P. L. Etchison was hostess to 33 members of the Ladies' Aid of the First Methodist church recently, entertaining in her home at 1119 North Bush street. Business and a social time were combined.

Mrs. Stewart led devotionals, and Mrs. Purdon and Mrs. Blood gave some delightful duets. Chrysanthemums in an array of gorgeous colors decked the rooms, and formed an attractive setting for the business of the day and the refreshment course which followed. The Hallow'en motif was evidenced in the menu.

The annual county convention date has been changed from April 24 to April 14, to allow all women to attend the state and county convention. It was voted to suspend the by-laws, relative to time of executive board meetings, until June, on account of convention dates.

Resolution Passed

Decrying the harmful effects both morally and physically, of dance marathons, the convention passed a resolution to be submitted to the county supervisors, that laws be enacted to make such endurance contests illegal. A courtesy resolution complimenting the hostess club was passed also.

Surprise Shower Was Charming Affair
In Orange

A charming surprise party of yesterday afternoon was that honoring Mrs. Marcus G. Lassiter of West Sixth street, with Mrs. Charles Schultz of Torrance, Mrs. V. L. Clem of this city, and Mrs. Fred Lentz as hostesses in the latter's home in Orange. Colorful autumn flowers adorned the rooms, and formed an attractive setting for the affair.

Interesting little books were made for the honoree, and a social time was enjoyed. Mrs. Lassiter was presented with an array of lovely gifts, and late in the afternoon a cleverly arranged refreshment course was served, with pink, blue and white as the color scheme. The guests were in unique fashion, and equally attractive were the party favors.

Those invited to share the delightful event, other than the hostesses, Mrs. Clem, Mrs. Schultz and Mrs. Lentz, and the honoree, Mrs. Lassiter, were Mrs. C. E. Clem, Mrs. John E. State, Mrs. S. W. Day Nursery Section
Announces First
Autumn Party

Although next Monday afternoon's program at Ebell clubhouse will be the formal entertainment feature of the month, when the film of India, "A Throw of Dice" will be presented through the co-operation of University of California extension service, the following Monday, November 3, will yield an affair of quite as much interest albeit it will be purely local in its importance.

But on that date, Ebell Day Nursery section will launch its winter series of monthly bridge parties with play to begin at 2 o'clock and all members and friends of the society invited to be present, enjoy the festivity, and assist in a worthy cause. For all proceeds from this series of monthly parties will be devoted to the needs of the Day Nursery, one of the most worthy projects furthered by Ebell society, and one in which the city as a whole is deeply interested.

Mrs. James L. Allen is serving as chairman of the party committee, with such adequate assistance as will be offered by Mrs. Perry Lewis and Mrs. Edward C. Erwin. They have announced that contract bridge players will have a table arranged for their special pleasure, and that all players, whether auction or contract devotees, may suit their own wishes regarding progressing or pivoting.

Attractive prizes will be awarded and light refreshments served. In fact the hostess trio and the entire section, will spare no pains to make the opening party a delightful social function. It is suggested that provision will be made in advance through Mrs. Allen, although provision will be made for those who neglect securing tickets until reaching the clubhouse on the afternoon of the party. However it would be a convenience for the committee to have a general idea of how many to expect.

Successive parties will follow on the first Monday afternoon of each month during the remainder of the club year.

Beta Gamma Members Enjoy Dinner and Informal Talks

Enjoying a dinner at Ketter's cafe and then adjourning to the home of Miss Maybelle Ball at 111 West Seventeenth street, members of Beta Gamma, honorary extracurricular society at Santa Ana junior college, met last night and elected new members to the group.

The dinner table was charmingly decorated with the club colors and small metal barnyard animals were standing at each place. Totally unexpected were the requests for impromptu speeches planned by Miss Ball, president. Mrs. John Tressmann, adviser, spoke on "The Most Humorous Man in History," Abbott Mason described his home, "La Casa de Los Dones," Vernell Butler told the meaning of her name, Warren Schutz was given "The Football Caravan to Pasadena," Bill Reinhardt spoke on "The Ideal Freshman" and John "Sky" Dunlap gave a pep talk on the football prospects.

The business session was held in the Ball home and eight new members were elected. Those will be announced at the Beta Gamma assembly Tuesday morning when the organization is to be sponsor of the weekly college gathering. The presentation of the new names, as well as an impressive explanation of Beta Gamma, has been planned.

The speaker for the affair will be Professor Orwyn W. E. Cook, from the department of political science and foreign relations at the University of Southern California. The general public is invited.

Club members also decided to make the official insignia in the form of a key. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. Members present were Miss Maybelle Ball, Miss Vernell Butler and Lawson Watkins, Warren Schutz, Abbott Mason, Bill Reinhardt, John "Sky" Dunlap and Mrs. John Tressmann, adviser.

Norway Was Topic
At Aid Meeting

Mrs. C. P. Boyer gave a most interesting discussion of Norway at the meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the First Presbyterian church held Thursday in the home of Mrs. W. S. McVay at 102 South Broadway.

Light refreshments were served late in the afternoon, and there were about 40 members present to share in the day's pleasures.

There are to have an informal surprise program Monday, at their luncheon in St. Ann's Inn, according to Miss Nancy Elder, October chairman. Miss Elder declined to give any details of the entertainment planned, beyond admitting that it would offer varied matters of general interest and entertainment.

Rickets—And Why

Today's opening paragraph is intended for mothers with tiny children. The antics of kittens, puppies and cute bow-legged babies are on a delightful par with those who love little things, especially the babies.

But look ahead a few years and today's lovable, bow-legged toddler is tomorrow's gangly, bow-legged child, admired by none except his loving mother. RICKETS is the answer. And the cause? Insufficient vitamins C and D during the first two years of life.

One given a fair start it is very hard to eradicate rickets, but why give it a start when we have at our command such an efficient natural cure as tomato juice, the citrus juices, cod liver oil and sun light.

Rickets affect the health of the bone growth, causing the weakened bones to grow along the lines of least resistance. Rickets affect all tissue growth to some extent and especially the stamens of the child. The trouble is evidenced by uneasy sleep, poor appetite, the desire to be left alone and not played with and a head bathed in clammy perspiration when asleep.

TODAY'S RECIPE
SANDWICH FRITTERS (for four)
8 slices bread
2 tablespoons soft butter
4 tablespoons jam

Fritter Batter Formula
2 eggs, whites beaten separately
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups sifted flour
1 tablespoon salad oil
Nutmeg or cinnamon to flavor.

Of course you are not going to use up all the fritter batter this recipe will make. Keep it in a covered jar in the ice box and it is ready for use with a minute's brisk beating.

Mix the fritter batter in the order in which the ingredients come, whipping in the stiff egg whites the last thing. Allow the batter to stand an hour before using.

Cut the bread in rather thin slices, trim off the crusts, spread one crust with butter, the other with jam, put together and cut in triangles or in fingers. Dip quickly into the fritter batter and drop in to deep hot fat to brown quickly. Drain on soft paper, sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve piping hot.

Each full sized sandwich has a calory value of close to 550. One if allowed for each person, more can be eaten if that persons thinks he can get away with the extra calories, or happily, has reached the age and state of mind where extra weight and true age no longer worry him.

Today is the last time we can offer free of charge the weekly leaflet, "Stuffings and Trimmings." Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope today and it will be sent to you promptly.

I wish that some reader who has a reliable recipe for making cheese cake would send it to me for publication.

Next week the leaflet will have a host of splendid old and new ways of making mince meat. Now is the time, you know, and the longer it is made, the better it gets.

Au revoir till Monday.

ANN MEREDITH.

Silver Wedding Offers
Theme For Surprise
Dinner Party

Friends in Santa Ana and Orange joined last night in making the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. St.heit, 1926 Chapman avenue, Orange, a most memorable occasion. In response to invitations sent by Miss Helen Stuthelt, guests gathered at the Villa Park hall, where a 6:30 o'clock dinner was served. The event was a surprise affair arranged by the daughter of the home.

Table appointments were carried out in pink and silver and an elaborate wedding cake centered the table. A miniature bride and bridegroom topped the cake.

Assisting Miss Helen Stuthelt in serving the dinner was Miss Mildred Stuthelt, Miss Ella Stuthelt, Miss Ethel Stuthelt, Mrs. Oscar Stuthelt and Mrs. La Verne Bruch.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. C. Woertz, Mr. and Mrs. A. Brubaker, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rohrs, Mr. and Mrs. Will Rohrs, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rohrs, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Lutes, Mr. and Mrs. G. Lutes, J. Trumphy, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Stamm, Mrs. Tillie Oberlin, Mrs. Emma Roberts, all of Santa Ana, and Mrs. O. Johnson and E. J. Heiser of Orange, and the Rev. and Mrs. E. J. W. Matz and daughter, Dorothy, of Santa Ana.

Auxiliary Glee Club Members Join In Dinner Party

Foretelling a series of similar merry affairs to be given from time to time during the winter months, was an enjoyable dinner and bridge party shared last night by members of the American Legion Auxiliary Glee club in the home of their president, Mrs. Dean Collier, 922 Orange avenue.

Each member added her favorite dish to the dinner menu with the result that the merry-makers sat down to a truly delectable feast served at small tables each gay with Halloween appointments and lighted by candles in pumpkin jack o' lanterns.

In the after-dinner bridge contest, Mrs. Judy Hyde scored high. Mrs. Charlene Utt, second, and Mrs. Elsie Conliffe, low. First and second prizes were ornamental card table covers, while a deck of fine playing cards was consolation, although the players had all believed they were playing for some of the delicious strawberry jam contributed to the dinner menu by Mrs. Charlene Utt.

Plans were made for the next social evening, which will be a Christmas dinner, bridge and gift exchange in the Charles Hyde Jr. home, 2205 Greenleaf street. Twenty members were present to share last night's initial party.

Northern Europe Was Topic at Family Night

Norway and Sweden, together with accounts of their quaint charm and interest, were considered last night at the Ebell clubhouse when members of the Third Travel section of the Ebell society presented "family night." About 60 were present to hear the delightful talks on the northern countries, as presented by Mrs. C. P. Boyer and Samuel Nau, who with Mrs. Nau and Mr. Boyer formed a Santa Ana party touring Europe in the past summer.

Lovely flowers adorned the lounge where the gathering was held, and especially attractive was a cluster of brilliant red zinnias. The Swedish people were highly lauded by Mr. Nau, who was impressed with their sturdy physiques, their beauty, and their wonderful educations. Both in Norway and Sweden, little tots speak such fluent English that travelers often suspect them of having English parents.

In the two interesting talks, Lapland was described as a fascinating place where members of the camp follow their reindeer herds, and live in sod houses. Hammerfest, the most northern city in the world, with a population of about 3000, was visited by the travelers, and while in North Cape, they saw six midnight suns. The Fourth of July was spent at the latter point.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening, and Miss Preble Drake was chairman of the evening. Of those present, nine spent the summer in Europe, and six others had been there previously.

Husbands Were Guests
At Klean Kut Club
Dinner Last Night

Husbands of Klean Kut members shared in the club meeting last night when Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Read were dinner hosts in their attractive home on South Flower street. Gaily colored garlands and Halloween appointments decked the rooms and the table as well.

Following the tempting dinner menu, bridge was enjoyed, and at the conclusion of the evening Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Reif were awarded prizes as high scorers and Mrs. Ray Couch and Lee Boyle as second high. A special consolation gift was given Mr. and Mrs. George Cocking.

Those sharing the pleasant evening with Mr. and Mrs. Read were Messrs. and Mesdames John Turton, J. L. McBride, A. W. Sanford, R. E. Couch, Eugene Reif, Roy Gowdy, Lee Boyle, George Cocking and O. F. Turner.

Auxiliary Planned Future Events at Recent Meeting

Plans for a Halloween party to be given soon in the home of Mrs. Mabel Leach and for a card party in the home of Mrs. Alma McKay were made recently when members of Post 220, women's auxiliary of the National Letter Carriers' association met in the home of Mrs. Ann Wilde on West Third street.

A delectable pot-luck luncheon was shared at noon, and was followed by a business session. Mrs. Florence Harvey and Mrs. Dorothy Thomas were welcomed as members.

Those present, other than Mrs. Wilde, the hostess, were Mrs. Alma McKay, Mrs. Pauline White, Mrs. Helen Valentine, Mrs. Ann Wilde, Mrs. Mabel Leach, Mrs. Lela Elliott, Mrs. Florence Harvey, Mrs. Ross Morrison, Mrs. Dorothy Thomas, Mrs. Coffett, Mrs. Beulah Marr, members, and Martha Sudcliffe and Dorcas Jones, guests.

New Members Asked to College Art Club

Invitations were issued yesterday bidding a number of Junior college students interested in art, to become members of the interesting and exclusive college art club, Alpha Rho Tau. Included in the list are Miss Virginia Pope, Miss Florine Pollock, Miss Beatrice Holly, Miss Esther Heim, Miss Mima Everett, Miss Gladys Gould, Martin Bowman, Robert Marshall, John Jamison, Kenneth Maynard, John Wykes, Ed Fry, Harley Meljan and Vern Backs.

Initiation of these new pledges is planned to take place in the very near future. On Halloween night a spooky party will be given in honor of the new members.

In charge of this anticipated affair are Miss Geraldine Cole, refreshments; Miss Elizabeth Straw, decorations; Miss Goldie Peale, invitations and Miss Maybelle Ball and Miss Adell Wilson, arrangements.

Sewing Club Met Yesterday

Stitch and Chatter members were pleasantly entertained yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Josie Antisdal was hostess in her home at 412 Halesworth street. Halloween decorations were featured. The afternoon was spent in needlework, and was concluded with a delectable refreshment course was served.

2,000 AD MEN ENTER BIG OIL COMPANY TEST

More than 2000 amateur advertising men and women in Southern California have already written and submitted advertising copy for the Western Oil and Refining company $1000 ad-writing contest. It was announced this week by N. J. Sayers, assistant sales manager of the company. It is estimated that this figure will reach three thousand during the next week.

"The large number of entrants in the contest at this early date is taken as an indication of the rapidly growing interest of the company and its products," Sayers said. "The number of entrants is increasing with each mail."

"The contest will remain open until midnight November 30," he continued. "Entrance blanks with a booklet explaining the rules are being distributed by all company service stations."

In addition to the gold prizes, every contestant is offered the opportunity of public recognition. Western Oil and Refining company plans to use the newspapers for an extensive advertising campaign beginning the first of the year. The prize winning advertisements will be printed as a series and will be the basis of the entire campaign.

Large display space will be used for these advertisements, and as each one is printed the name of the writer will be indicated. In this manner the contest winners will be given wide publicity in many of the papers in the state.

Everyone is eligible to compete except employees of Western Oil and Refining company, professional ad writers and members of the family of either group.

Abbott Gets Big Hudson Position

Chester G. Abbott has been appointed assistant general manager of the Hudson Motor Car company. The promotion is in line with the traditional policy of Hudson-Essex motors in promoting men long associated with the company, conversant with its policies, who gained their experience on the "firing line." Mr. Abbott has been associated with Hudson for 15 years, rising from salesman to vice-president of the Henley-Kimball company, Boston, one of Hudson-Essex's most successful distributors. Last year he was appointed general sales manager of the Hudson company.

Seek Ways To Dispose Of Icy Wings

The fatal crash of Lieut. William Caldwell recently, when he lost control of his army plane while flying through a snowstorm in Wyoming, has intensified efforts of Goodrich engineers who are conducting experiments in conjunction with manufacturers and operators of airplanes to eliminate the hazards of ice on airplane wings through use of rubber appliances.

Lieutenant Caldwell was flying from Vancouver, B. C., to New York with Lieut. Irving Woodring, who was carrying the Japanese ratification of the naval treaty. The latter flier landed safely at Mitchell Field, L. I.

Ice on airplane wings is the greatest hazard of winter flying, according to F. A. Nield, general superintendent of the Pacific Goodrich Rubber company. It begins to form when the temperature is slightly above freezing. The hazard is lessened in lower temperatures.

In the Goodrich laboratories at Akron, Ohio, where more than 50 rubber appliances for airplanes have been developed, a wind tunnel has been installed to create temperatures of various degrees as well as varying wind velocity. It has been found that the danger point occurs at that point in atmospheric conditions just above the freezing point. Vapor will collect on wings and as the temperature drops form a coat of ice.

ONE CAR FOR EVERY VOTER IN STATE

Although California is the leading state in the Union in number of automobiles per capita, it was not realized until the registration of voters closed for the last election that there is really an automobile for every registered voter in the state. Some counties have more automobiles than registered voters, and it is believed that Merced is in the lead, according to advices reaching the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Out of a population of 36,990 Merced county showed registered 11,637 voters. But the voters were outnumbered nearly 2000 by the motor vehicles in the county, which totaled 14,582. The records show that it is rare for any county in the United States to have more automobiles than it has registered voters.

NEW CADILLAC IS SEEN HERE FOR 1ST TIME

The long heralded new 12-cylinder Cadillac, one hundred and forty, and one hundred and forty-three inch wheel bases, powered by an engine comparable in design and performance to that of the Cadillac V-16, will be displayed at the Cadillac fall style salon which opens today in dealers' showrooms, according to Lawrence P. Fisher, president. The car will be shown locally by Otto Haan at Second and Main streets.

"The fall style salon for the first time will display all four lines of the Cadillac Motor Car Company at one showing," says Mr. Haan. Representative models of the La Salle and Cadillac V-8's, V-12's and V-16's will be presented.

"F. O. B. Detroit prices range from $2795 to $4995. The new V-12 line has been in process of development along with the V-16 and takes its place between this exclusive custom line and the Cadillac V-8. The V-12 engine is of the same type and built to exactly the same standards as the V-16—a duplicate of this engine in pattern and appearance but having 12 cylinders instead of 16.

"In general exterior lines the V-12 follows the new style motif first revealed in the Cadillac V-8. The first impression is one of sweeping length, lowness, style and spirit. Chromium plated screen covers the radiator. Head lights of the V-16 design carry V-12 monograms on the tie bar between. The V-12 is equipped with two horns, hood ports and has two boxes set in the front fenders, one carrying the battery. All bodies have a modified coach sill.

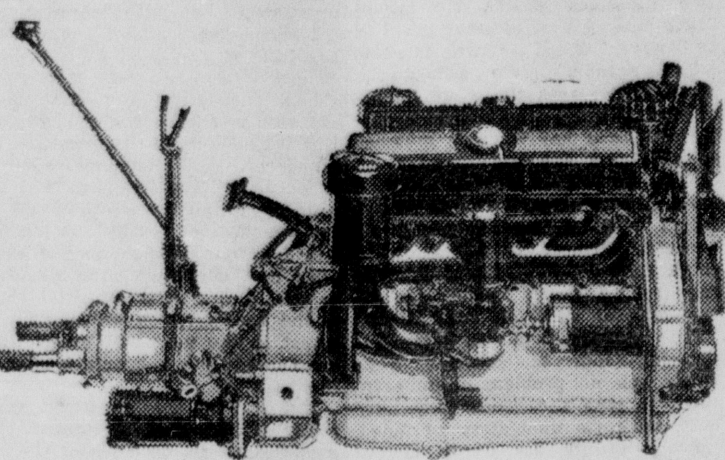

"Wheels are small, fitted with large hubs. Tail lamps on each rear fender are combined with stop signal. There are six bodies by Fisher and four by Fleetwood, with all interiors by Fleetwood. Upholstery is of the plain type, piped with leather. The rear compartments of sedans carry two foot rests of hickory, carpet covered, spring upholstered. The instrument panel is oval with dials grouped. The entire front compartment is lined with carpet, over steel floor boards covered with fibre insulation.

"The V-12 engine, with the exception of fewer cylinders and a few details, is a duplicate of the V-16 engine. It is of the same overhead valve type using V-16 style automatic valve silencers. Bore and stroke is 3 1/8 by 4. There are four steel-backed babbit main bearings. Engine lubrication is by pressure. Crankcase ventilation is identical with the V-16, and cooling and fuel systems are the same.

New Cadillac V-12's Feature Fall Salon

The Five-Passenger Coupe exhibits the sleek, racy lines and graceful proportions of the new Cadillac V-12. Luxurious and roomy, it has a large baggage compartment in the rear. Ports replace the conventional louvers in the hood.

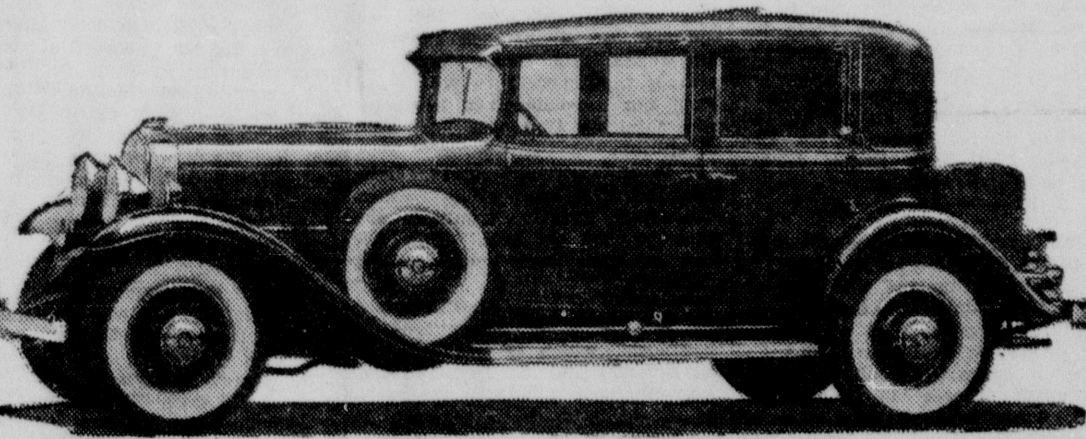

The Cadillac V-12 engine, of the same type and built to the same standards as the V-16, but having 12 instead of 16 cylinders. It develops 135 horsepower, piston displacement is 368 cu. in., taxable horsepower 46.9. All carburetor roar on the new V-12 is effectively silenced by the two intake mufflers.

The distinctive Cadillac V-12 emblem.

This Cadillac V-12 Convertible Coupe by Fleetwood is equally suitable for fair or stormy weather. The top is instantly adjustable and folds down very compactly. It is upholstered in rich leather, or whipcord.

The smart lines of this V-12 Town Sedan for five give some idea of how Cadillac designers have captured the swift, modern spirit without sacrificing dignity or elegance.

Big Demand Is Made For Chrysler 8's

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 18.—Demand on the part of the public for prompt delivery of the new line of Chrysler Imperial Eights has been so great since the announcement in July that production schedules have been increased 100 per cent over the original estimate.

This information was given out today by officials of the Chrysler Sales Corporation who at the same time stated that unfilled orders on the Chrysler Imperial Eight now total 208 per cent over the original production schedule.

The demand for the Imperial Eight, finest product to bear the Chrysler name, is in line with reports of improvements in conditions generally throughout the country, officials of the corporation point out. Orders for the Imperial line are coming in from all parts of the country signifying that the shortage is not confined to any one section, they say.

Production lines on the Imperial Eight are working night and day, Sundays and holidays to take care of the increased demand for every model. Despite this increase in manufacturing schedule a sizeable bank of orders will be carried over into November, officials further stated.

SELECTION OF RIGHT TRACTOR IS IMPORTANT

October is the best time of the year for farmers to plan in detail for next year's work, according to a statement recently made by Willard E. Shepherd, of the Shepherd Tractor and Equipment company, distributors of "Caterpillar" tractors in Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties.

"Every good farmer is also a business man," said Shepherd, "and successful business men always make it a point to take account of stock at least once a year and to lay out a plan of campaign for the coming year. Merchants usually do this about the first of the year. But to the farmer the logical time for taking stock and for planning for the future is the month of October. By this time the yearly crops have been harvested and marketed and preparations for next year's crops are in order.

"The selection of a tractor plays

FRANKLIN GIVES AIRPLANE HARD LAND-AIR RACE

Californians showed marked interest in an unusual race where, in the air-cooled power of a Franklin special car was pitted against the air-cooled power of an airplane. In this land-air race staged between Stockton and Fresno, the plane naturally won, but reached the finish line only seven minutes ahead of the Franklin.

The race was held on Sunday and the Franklin had to slow down at various times because of the heavy motor traffic. The ability of the air-cooled car to finish so closely behind the airplane in view of the traffic handicap is considered a remarkable performance of power, speed and fast acceleration.

The Franklin special, equipped with a racing body, was powered by a standard air-cooled, airplane type Franklin engine which has won a conspicuous position in motordom. Even before the development of the current Franklin engine, the Franklin car within the past two years has captured practically every major road record in America and has earned the reputation of being the fastest road car in the nation.

With the public showing a tremendously increasing interest in air-cooling, it is only natural that more attention than ever before should be centered in the Franklin cars. This interest is true, not only of the public but also in the technical field as well. Because of the great advancement of the air-cooled engine in both the automobile and the airplane, engineers look to this type of engine as the logical one for any further outstanding improvements in design and performance.

An important part. It has been demonstrated that a tractor which is designed in such a way that it will not pack the land will help materially to increase both the quality and quantity of the crops raised on that land.

"When it comes to cutting costs, the tractor again occupies a very important position. The best way to eliminate waste is to use a tractor which is so sure-footed that it will not use up fuel and time needlessly on slippage. The selection of tractors which are known to be economical to operate and to be exceptionally sturdy and long-lived will also aid materially in reducing costs to the minimum."

GOODMAN SAYS NEW CAR TIRES NOT INFERIOR

Motorists often wonder whether there is any difference between the quality of the tires that are delivered as original equipment on cars bought from auto dealers and tires of the same make bought from tire dealers.

Many drivers say that they have been led to believe that the equipment tires on new cars are not as good as the ones of the same make sold by tire dealers.

"From our observations at the tire factories," says Jess Goodman, of the Jess Goodman Tire company, distributors for the General tire in this city, "we can say positively that there is no difference between new car tires and those sold by dealers.

"They are all made up together and, from the same stocks in the factories, some go unwrapped to car manufacturers and the others, wrapped, to car dealers.

"Car owners sometimes wonder what car manufacturers pay for car equipment tires, and whether or not tire manufacturers sell to car makers on a profitable basis. It is authoritatively stated that tire manufacturers who make original equipment tires sell them to the car makers at an average loss of four per cent.

"A few companies, notably General, prefer to sell tires only to car owners at a standard price, reasonably profitable. They figure they can build better tires, not having charge-off losses; that they are not obligated to operate competitively with companies building tires to meet a price; that, in other words, there is no barrier to keep them from building just as good tires as they know how to make, whereas the so-called car equipment tire manufacturers are limited.

73,000 Miles In Less Than Year In Ford

Over 73,000 miles in less than a year is record of a Ford Tudor owned by E. D. Kritz, rural mail carrier of Charles City, Iowa. Practically the only expense for repairs was for new piston rings and a bearing for the generator.

The car is used on a 70-mile star route with an average load of 1,200 pounds of mail, and on a route of 180 miles delivering the Waterloo Courier. It travels the 250 miles daily except Sunday and is operated by three drivers.

"The car has never failed to go when I was ready," Mr. Kritz said. "Even the starter did the trick last winter at 34 degrees below zero. The gas runs about 20 miles per gallon. At times I pull a trailer whenever I have a bulky load."

MARATHON CAR VISITS LOCAL DODGE DEALER

On its seventh trip out of Detroit since July 1, and with the dust of every state in the Union on its hood, the Dodge Eight Mileage Marathon car passed through here yesterday enroute to the Dodge factory.

More than 40,000 miles have already been piled up by this car, under the watchful eye of the A. A. A. contest board representatives who ride as observer at all times. The aim of the Dodge factory is to pile up more mileage in fewer days than any car has heretofore accomplished.

The sixth trip, which was concluded October 4, was the longest yet undertaken. It required 18 days and took the Dodge Eight into the great Southwest which completed a circuit of the United States.

In Washington, Ray Priest, who acts as official observer for the A. A. A., was received by President Hoover, to whom he gave detailed reports of road conditions as he found them during his long automobile tour.

The present trip brought the car to the Pacific for the fourth time. On the first trip the car touched first at Los Angeles and went on the coast as far as San Francisco. On the second trip it went to San Francisco and thence down the coast to Los Angeles. The fourth trip was into the Northwest territory and this time the point of contact with the Pacific was San Diego. On the other "loop" tours out of Detroit, the Dodge Eight has visited the full length of the Atlantic seaboard and checked into Western Union stations through the South and Middle West.

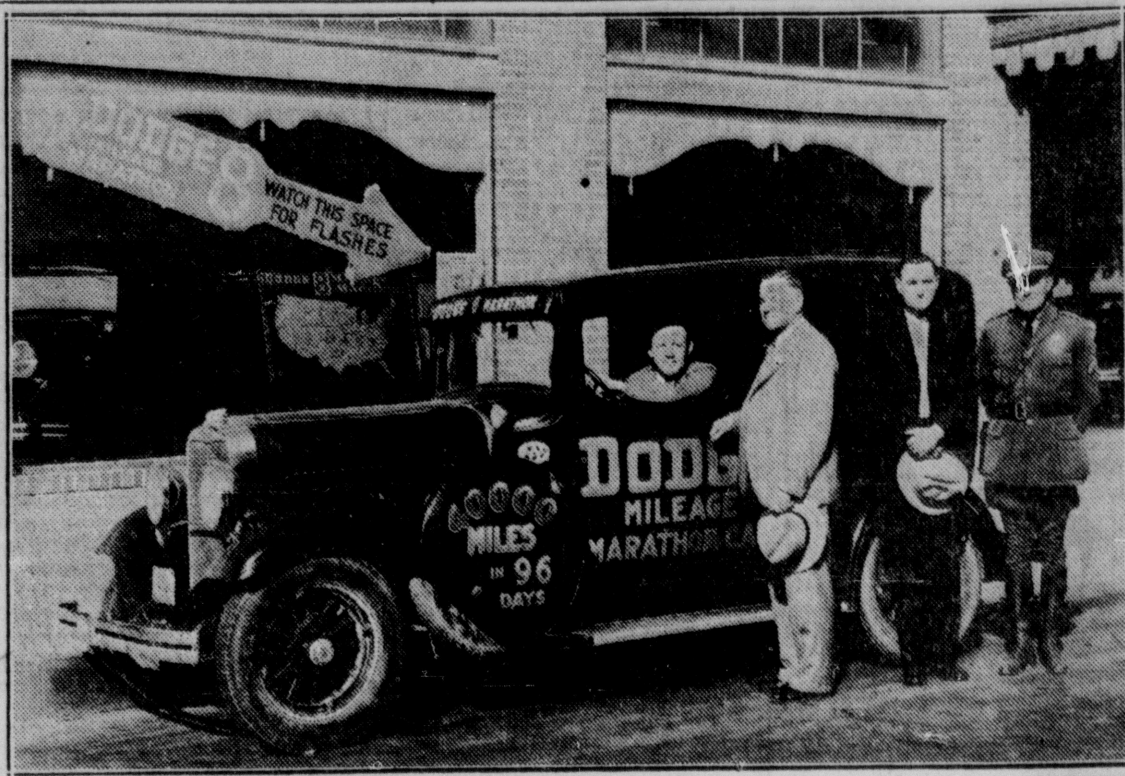

Mr. L. D. Coffing, local Dodge dealer, says that no attempt is being made to lower existing speed records. The car is being driven at normal driving rate and the crew stops every night to get their rest. The factory is demonstrating beyond point of doubt that the dependability which has been acknowledged for Dodge products is still an inherent part of present-day Dodges.

Olive Avenue from Burbank to Dark Canyon is under construction, but passable, although short detours are necessary, advises the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Grading operations are in progress on the road between Taft and Devil's Den. It is reported by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

FAMOUS MARATHON CAR HERE

Famous Dodge Eight Marathon car, which paid a brief visit to Santa Ana yesterday. The car was welcomed to the city by Mayor Frank L. Purinton. Others in the picture are: at the wheel, Harry Reynolds, driver of the cross country machine; Mayor Purinton, Ray Priest, official AAA observer and Sergeant of Motor Police B. A. Hershey. The picture was taken in front of the salesroom of L. D. Coffing company, local Dodge dealers.

$2,000,000 TO BE SPENT ON WAWONA ROAD

Wawona road, one of the thrilling, highly scenic mountain routes from the south into Yosemite valley, is to be made even more delightful for motorists through the expenditure of some $2,000,000 on reconstruction and relocation, according to advices received by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The government is spending approximately this amount on a four-year program of development of this scenic route. Included in the work will be a 4000 foot tunnel thrust through the solid granite, an engineering achievement which promises to compete with the natural beauties of the valley for the attention of motor tourists.

The construction work on the road is expected to be completed for the travel season of 1932. Begun last year, one section of the improvement already has been finished, from Grouse Creek to within five miles of the Mariposa grove of big trees. This stretch is typical of the improvement which will be effected for the entire distance of 30 miles from the floor of the valley to the grove. Instead of the narrow and often steep and winding road with a prevailing width of only 12 feet and frequent sharp turns, the completed section is 25 feet wide, with a uniform grade of not more than five per cent and with easy curves. Similar construction is under way on the remaining five miles between the completed stretch and Mariposa Grove.

REMIND TOURISTS NO HOTEL AT PARK

Motorists planning visits to General Grant National Park during the autumn or early winter season are reminded that there are no hotel or restaurant accommodations within the park itself between October 1 and May 1 of each year.

Such accommodations may be had in the vicinity of the park, however, at the Big Stump, two and one-half miles below headquarters, and at Pinehurst, ten miles below, both on the main approach road to the park, according to advices reaching the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Cops Make Headlight Check-Ups

Motorcycle officers of the state highway patrol are now making prompt check-ups of the headlights of cars traveling the highways. Motorists are warned by the Automobile Club of Southern California that they may be stopped at any time at night for a test of their headlights by the state patrolmen.

White screens with lines at different heights are held up on the road by the officers, and others inspect the "throw" of the headlights.

One of the most abused provisions of the state vehicle act is that regarding headlights, it is found. The law provides that every motor car or truck shall have two headlights, no more and no less, of approximate equal candle power at the front and on each side of the vehicle.

Removal from the highways of the menace of glaring or dazzling headlights is the object of the California highway patrol, and motorists are warned that they are subject to arrest when headlights are found to be out of adjustment.

NEW SERVICE ACQUIRED BY LYON TIRE CO.

Orval Lyon, well known tire dealer of Santa Ana, who has been operating the Lyon Tire Service at Main and Chestnut streets for the past eight months has purchased the service station adjoining the tire store, on the corner, and will operate it in connection with his other business in the future, he announced today.

Standard Oil products are to be handled at the station exclusively, he announced.

The service station was purchased from H. D. Andrews who has had the lease for the past two years. The consideration was not made public.

The acquiring of all the property by Lyon makes the service station and tire department one of the largest in the city, with its equipment, together with added improvements to be made by Lyon immediately will make it one of the most up-to-date places of its kind in Orange county.

In the tire department Lyon will continue the sale of Fisk Air-flight tires. The gasoline station will be operated by Paul Schmideke, and the plant now is equipped to give 100 percent car service.

SAYS BATTERIES ARE DISCARDED TOO SOON

The other day your automobile editor was talking with Mr. Earl Matthews, proprietor of the Willard Service Station, at Fifth and Spurgeon streets. We had been discussing in particular whether or not our present storage battery would continue to give good service for a few months so we asked Mr. Matthews to tell us something about the average driver's reaction to a weak and run-down battery.

"The average driver," said Mr. Matthews, "is not as hasty in buying a new battery as he used to be—but he is still not as careful and economical as he should be. Naturally, when a man finds a run-down battery in his car—especially for the second or third time—he concludes at once that

ORVAL LYON'S NEW CAR SERVICE PLANT

The above picture shows the newly acquired plant of Orval Lyon, located at South Main and Chestnut streets. Lyon has operated the tire department here for the past several months but has just taken over the service station. Latest equipment including a high pressure lubricating system, hydraulic hoist and other modern equipment is installed. The tire department is operated by Dean Moorehouse, 14 years in the tire business here.

he must need a new battery. Sometimes of course he is quite right and should replace his old battery at once with a new one. Very often, however, a run-down battery doesn't mean anything of the sort. Our advice to customers always is—bring it to us first and let us inspect it for you. A visit to a reliable battery dealer will often show that a run-down battery needs only a recharge or minor repair to make it operate satisfactorily again.

The road from Taft to Lost Hills is paved to McKittrick, followed by good graded oiled road to Lost Hills, according to advice received by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

THE TINYMITES
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The man up by the cork tree said, "Well, sonny, you go right ahead and do a little stripping. It is fun when you know how. It will not take you long to learn to give the bark the proper turn and take it right off of the tree. I'll let you try it now."

So Clowdy did as he was told. Of bits of bark he grabbed a hold and pulled as hard as he could pull. The others stood nearby and watched him at his new found task. Soon Clowdy heard wee Scouty ask, "If you're as strong as you contend, what makes you pull and sigh?"

"Aw, anyone gets tired out. You don't know what it's all about," snapped Clowdy. "If you think that you can do it, come ahead." This made brave Scouty laugh and he replied, "Oh, no sir, not for me! I know that I can do it, but I'll just watch you, instead."

Soon Coppy said, "Of what good use is all the cork they're prying loose?" "That is a silly question," answered Carpy, with a grin. "It's used for corks in bottles. You still have to learn a thing or two. Why, you've seen cork of some sort in most every place we've been."

The cork man then said, "Come with me. Another sight you'll shortly see. I have a load of cork nearby and when a big ship sails, 'twill take this cork to other lands." The Tinsles jumped and clapped their hands. "Oh, goody! Maybe we can ride atop one of the barrels."

"Why, sure you can," the man replied. "There's lots of room for you to ride!" And so they climbed on top of the cork and shouted, "Well, let's go." The cork man gave the horse a slap and loudly shouted, "Giddyup!" It was a pretty heavy load and so they traveled slow.

The Tinymites meet the doughnut man in the next story.

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1.—In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

down. Pangle made the extra point.

The last, and most spectacular, came a few plays later, when Harold Pangle, burly fullback, came up out of nowhere to snake a Pasadena pass out of the air and race 40 yards to the goal line. Pangle nonchalantly booted his third successive dropkick, a probable all-time Santa Ana record, as the Saints have been notoriously poor on conversions.

The difference between the two teams was the splendid offensive force that Oliver has worked up and which scored 18 first downs to four for Pasadena. Coach Jim Thurman's gridders never penetrated beyond the 35-yard line and that only once, following the opening kickoff, when a little lad named Ayers chalked up two first downs, only to fumble and lose the ball.

Although Reboin stole the show with his hair-raising bursts of speed through and around the line, some other backs deserve credit. Max Wilson and Hideo Higashi had punch and fight drifting out everywhere and they hit the Bulldogs forward line like an unchaperoned gentleman. Lynn Chamberlain, quarter, filled in capably for Reboin and showed his heels to the pack. Ralph Gordon bobbed up with some nice passes and several assorted paces. Fred Bell, dusky halfback, and Harold Pangle, hard hitting fullback, were used mostly for interference but played a big part on defense.

The Santa Ana forward wall limited the Pasadena backs to a total of 77 yards and opened up enough holes to let the Saint backs chalk up an even 300 yards from scrimmage. Jim Daneri was outstanding at end, snaggling some beautiful passes and keeping his flank well protected. Gb Meisinger also played a good game at end, as did Floyd Blower, who saw little action because of an injured leg.

Lawrence Lutz and Joe Preininger handled the tackle jobs capably while Bill Donahue and Glenn Minter were the best reserves. Dallas Reichstein and Garth Olsen played a good part of the game at guard although Hard Runyan and Tom Bensley also saw action. Roy Harvey played a stellar game at center. Coach Oliver used practically every man on the bench in the last frame.

Progressive Dinner Was Merry Event Given By Young People

Another interesting affair of the Halloween season was a most delightful progressive dinner given Thursday evening by members of the Young People's Fellowship of the Church of the Messiah at a succession of homes, all of which carried distinctive Halloween decorations.

Meeting at the church at 6 o'clock members proceeded to the home of Dr. George L. Chapman on North Main street, where they were served the cocktail and soup course by the Misses Gertrude and Katherine Chapman. Fruit salad, nuts and candy were found in Tustin in the home of the Misses Florence and Martha Stanley. At Miss Edith Bailey's home, 811 East Washington avenue, the main course consisting of Virginia baked ham, sweet potatoes, peas, hot biscuits, jelly was served. A glorified apple pie with whipped cream and coffee completed the delicious menu and was served at the home of William Wollaston on North Ross.

As a finale to the jolly affair a golf tournament was staged at the Mission Golf course with low scores won by Miss Katherine Chapman for the girls and William Wollaston for the men. Large boxes of candy were presented the lucky winners, by George Platt.

Those enjoying the affair were Miss Edith Bailey, Miss Marjorie Hatter, Miss Florence Stanley, Miss Juliette Taylor, Miss Floretta Harman, Miss Gertrude Chapman, Miss Katherine Chapman, Miss Martha Stanley, Frank Lansdown Jr., Gordon Almas, Eric Eastman, Preston Bradford, Ted Lansdown, Alex Lowe, Cleland Harbaugh, Byron Harmon, Charles Lloyd and the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hatter, Mr. and Mrs. John Lacy Taylor and the counselors Mrs. A. H. T. Taylor, Miss Mabel C. Larrick and William Wollaston.

Meeting in the Bank of Italy building, residents of Placentia formed a "Jernigan for Sheriff" club Friday evening, and elected committee. Attorney B. Z. McKimney, of Santa Ana, was the speaker of the evening, and he said in part:

"People are saying that Sam Jernigan is wet. I know that he is not wet and that he believes in the enforcement of the prohibition law as well as all other laws, and that he has enforced the law to the best of his ability with the aid of deputies at his command. But we must also remember in choosing a sheriff that all of his duty is not in criminal work, but that a good part of it is in civil work such as attachments and sales of property."

Verne Baker, of Fullerton, read a letter from an assistant in the California prohibition department in which it was stated that while the department heads could not endorse any candidates, yet they had always co-operated with the state department and that Orange county was in a par with other counties in regard to the law enforcement.

Leo Porter also spoke in favor of Jernigan and particularly urged all voters to go to the polls on election day.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(UP)—A sharp break in the J. I. Case and other shares of wide proportions in other heavy stocks brought the stock market below the previous close today after a substantial run up in early trading.

Montgomery Ward met renewed pressure. Many holders, disappointed over the action of directors in eliminating the dividend, sold their holdings and the stock made a new low for the year.

Sears Roebuck went down in sympathy with Montgomery Ward. Case made a new low at 115 1/4, off 12 1/2 from the previous close.

During the early trading U. S. Steel rose to a new high on the movement at 152 1/2, up 1 1/4 from the previous close. This stock drifted lower before the close.

Railroad shares held fairly well. Erie touched 38 in early trading when it was up 1 1/4 from the previous close. However, when the September report was issued showing a falling off of 50 percent in earnings as compared with September, 1929, the stock dropped to 36 1/2.

The first 22 railroads to report September earnings net operating income of $30,670,000 against $22,265,000 in September, 1929, a decrease of 15.4 percent. The September figure, however, was 8.1 percent over August.

Leading industrial issues were higher in the early trading with U. S. Steel and General Motors leading the way. Toward the close profit taking followed and the market was again turned to net losses ranging to 3 points.

Utilities went down with the other issues. Amusement followed as did motors and special stocks. In the latter group Gillette lost nearly 3 points.

MUTT AND JEFF—Yaleburgh Should Have Trained on Camphor Balls

DRILL IN H. B. WELL REPORTED IN HARD ROCK

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 25.—The McCasland well at Twenty-first and Olive has been cutting in a formation so hard that only three to five feet is being drilled during 24 hours. The depth is near 6700 feet. There were oil stringers showing in the well for the last 50 to 100 feet, following the first change of formation out of a dead shale that has held steady for 1000 feet or more.

The oil stringers were but a few inches in thickness as shown by the cores, but they presented a change for the better. Now this tough, hard cap rock is being cut. If the bit is able to go through it, there should be a change beneath into sand. Whether it is to be an oil sand or a water sand, will not be known until the bit has penetrated the rock-like shale that has laid under compression more than a mile and a quarter beneath the earth's surface for millions of years. If it is an oil sand, there will be things doing at Huntington Beach.

There were small lease deals made in the field during the past week, although on the whole the field is the quietest in its history. A. N. Macrate, Long Beach operator, took a lease on lots 1 and 3, block 315, west end town lot zone. R. C. Kaiser, Los Angeles operator, has obtained from T. W. Powell leases on lots 25 and 27, block 521 and on lots 2 and 4 in block 520, east end town lot section. These leases are in the fifth block back from the ocean on Twentieth street.

GROWERS PLAN DRIVE AGAINST FRUIT THEVES

LA HABRA, Oct. 25.—Capt. Haward Brooks of the Los Angeles county fruit patrol was the speaker at a mass meeting of the fruit growers of La Habra Heights and ranchers north of Whittier boulevard Wednesday evening at the city hall. Sixty ranchers appeared and the meeting was adjourned to the Maconic temple, where the business meeting was held.

The purpose of the meeting was to call together the growers and officials of both Los Angeles and Orange county and to discuss means of patrolling the orange and avocado belt in this particular area known as "no man's land," which in the past has been the mecca for fruit thieves. As the section lies in the edge of each county it was rarely patrolled by officers, it was said.

Capt. Brooks expressed himself as being glad to know of the situation and stated that officers would protect Los Angeles county fruit in the section and an extra man would probably be placed on duty there soon.

R. B. Way, constable of Whittier, expressed himself as being highly in favor of a patrol in this section. He explained that his office is for civil cases and not criminal cases, however.

William Schumaker, county supervisor, promised all assistance possible for orange county protection but explained that under the California counties act the supervisors are not at liberty to draw on additional funds than that allotted them for additional deputies. He stated that at present Orange county has 17 deputies and Los Angeles county has 600. Under the authorities are at liberty to draw on funds at any time for additional deputies, he said.

Sheriff Sam Jernigan suggested that if they would choose a patrolman he would be glad to make him a deputy and they could work out a plan of finance for themselves. Miss Marguerite Curtis, grower, suggested that warning signs of patrol be placed along the roads. The meeting was presided over by Howard Cooper. L. N. Hopper acted as secretary.

EVENING SALUTATION

"The greatest test of a gentleman is his willingness to forgive."
—REV. T. G. WALLACE, D. D.

"RITIOUS SAVING"

Attention should be called to the opinion of Messrs Foster and Catching expressed in last night's Register on this page, in their regular space, under the heading "Saving Money and Wasting Men." The same idea is enlarged upon by them in the November number of the Atlantic Monthly, under the heading "Rituous Saving."

During the past few months, when the numbers of unemployed have been increasing they say, "The Federal Government has saved money, . . . banks have also piled up savings."

In the article on "Rituous Saving" these economists first discuss the matter of a high standard of living:

In the economic sense, it (high standard of living) is nothing but the using up of much wealth . . . increased consumption of goods is a higher standard of living.

Everyone who saves money, at times like the present, when his abstinence helps to curtail production and throw men out of work, saves at the expense of other people.

The people of this country are proud of their high standard of living. Tourists who return from abroad, however they may have been interested in economic experiments in other countries, acknowledge that the American people enjoy a higher standard of living than the people of any other country. But in the past we have enjoyed our high standard of living without much planning for its continuance. In fact, without any idea that will and planning could make it continue.
Most people, in the back of their minds, have felt that it could not last; that it was due to the new country, new inventions, growth.
Many serious-minded persons have been sure that it could not last, that we were riding to a fall. Now come these economists who advise us that we must plan to make it last, that it is the patriotic duty of everyone to uphold our high standard of living and that to do so we must spend.

It is advice which we must accustom ourselves to for it is contrary to all that has been preached to us in the church, the school, the home.

Here is another statement from these economists:

The money you save will be used by somebody to finance production; but, for the most part, production has no trouble in getting itself financed. The money you spend for goods finances consumption; and just now consumption is having trouble in getting itself financed.
The money you save may possibly be used to produce goods, which may or may not be sold. The money you spend will certainly move the goods already made, and create a demand for more. A demand for goods is potentially a demand for labor. A demand for labor means more wages for consumers. And more wages for consumers—provided consumers' goods increase at the same rate—mean higher standards of living.

No sane economist would advise against people saving enough for sickness, unemployment, and old age, nor do the gentlemen, Foster and Catchings. But note a final word from them: Spending in proportion to producing, we do not lay waste our substance in rituous saving.

If California adopts Daylight Saving it will be in discord with 97 per cent of the balance of the nation. Wherever Daylight Saving is practiced you will find it necessary to use two watches and two time tables, because railroads, steamships and post offices will not adopt Daylight Saving.

THE FIRST GOOD SIGN OF REVIVING BUSINESS

The past week saw the first signs of a revival of business. Over twenty thousand cars of freight more than the preceding week were moved. Our exports increased during the month of September over those of August. If this progress continues at the same ratio for the coming weeks, we shall have reason to take courage.

There has been so many exploded hopes during the past eight months that one is cautious in inferring too much. But the pick-up of the market on Monday was a good omen.
Surely, things cannot go much lower than they have been. It may be some years before the boom times of 1929 will be repeated, but normal prosperity must come in the very nature of things. Stocks are said to be low among merchandising concerns. There appears to be a genuine co-operation in large business circles to get going. The merchants are advertising in the large cities as if they expected people to have money and to buy.

We certainly hope to see things mend. The unrest due to unemployment and the general pessimism abroad makes for instability and social danger. We have no fears of bolshevism or any other radical movement, but destitute multitudes grow desperate when patience is exhausted. We shall look eagerly for the signs of the next few weeks.

"IF" LITERATURE

One of our monthly magazines is publishing a series of articles speculating what might have happened if certain historic events had not happened. What if Booth had not shot Lincoln, or what if Lee had won the battle of Gettysburg, or what if Napoleon had escaped to America, as he intended to do.

These are very interesting conjectures, but as a matter of fact they did not happen. It would not be difficult to multiply such "ifs" indefinitely. What if Charles I had permitted Cromwell to go to America, instead of taking him off the vessel which was to carry him there? What would have happened if the Continental Congress had appointed John Hancock instead of George Washington commander-in-chief of the Revolutionary forces?

What if Columbus had been lost at sea? The course of history is not to be determined by a series of "ifs."

If we belonged to an earlier school of religious belief, we should say that all these events were determined by an overruling power. That is no longer tenable. The doctrine of providence is not so simple as it was once.
Science has come in to tell us the immediate causes. Napoleon once said that God was on the side of the heaviest battalions. That is not necessarily so. The man behind the gun is a very necessary factor in determining results in battle.

We confess to very little interest in these purely academic questions. After the final guess as to what might have happened, the fact that something else actually happened determines the course of history. All the rest is simply a working out of useless puzzles.
"If" literature does not make a strong appeal to most of us.

In 1919 Labor asked Congress to abolish Daylight Saving because it had increased unemployment, it had forced men and women to start work an hour earlier in the morning, and it had damaged so many industries as to hurt the general payroll of the country. Congress immediately abolished Daylight Saving. Labor still opposes it for the same reasons.

TAX EXEMPTION FOR GALLERY

On the ballot on election day there will appear an amendment to the Constitution providing for the exemption of the Huntington Library and Art Gallery from taxation. While we consider it unfortunate that it is necessary to make such specific provision for such property to be exempted by constitutional amendment, yet as long as it is necessary, this amendment certainly should be adopted.

This institution was founded by the late Henry E. Huntington and it is a place of rare value which art students and others are visiting in constantly increasing numbers. For the number of visiting days since 1928, when in January it was opened to the public, there has been an average of five hundred and five persons visit this library.

It is greatly desired that the entire income from the securities and property of the trust for this institution be devoted to the maintenance and operation of the library and gallery, and hence the aim is to save it from taxation.
It should not be taxed any more than a public school should be taxed, or the city hall. It is to be hoped that the people will vote "yes" on this amendment. It will be on the ballot as No. 15.

Written Less In Anger Than In Kindly Sorrow

San Francisco Chronicle Knowing full well that men are as ready to fight for their weather as for their chosen make of safety razor or typewriter or radio, we approach the subject with great caution. Candidly, however, we admit to just a little malice way down in the secret recesses of our mind, though we think it is justified.

We have been more than a little annoyed by our Eastern friends. Just as we reach the heights of eloquence over the invigorating but always luxurious climate of San Francisco one of those inconsiderable tourists always breaks in with a "Yes, but." Then he goes into a rhapsody over October in the Midwest or on the Atlantic coast.
The autumnal coloring, the soft haze, the crisp mornings, the tang of burning leaves, the voluptuous midday—we have heard about October over and over again to the exclusion of the other eleven months of the year.

Even when we interpose that we know those Octobers and that they are lovely our Eastern friends only grow the more loquacious on the subject. With only one month to talk about they probably shouldn't be blamed. But, nevertheless, they do become annoying at times, particularly when they seem to arrogate to themselves the credit of having invented and manufactured that October weather.

So we hope they won't feel too much hurt when we ask them to look at the current weather reports.
This is still October and we read about blizzards and cold waves and one thing or another from the Rockies to the Atlantic. Even football sounded a note of distress last Saturday, only three days past the midpoint.

Of course, the apologists will come along with the assurance that the harsh October weather is unusual. Copy cats! Besides, it is unusual only by a margin of a couple of weeks.

Record Drought May Never Repeat

Pasadena Star-News
It is well to be philosophical about disastrous visitations of Nature. The drought, for instance, which is ending over wide areas of the Atlantic and Central states. The meteorologist of the United States Department of Agriculture pronounces the experiences over wide areas of the United States from January to September of this year as "the most prolonged and widespread drought in the history of the Nation's weather records." That very announcement is something upon which to base a very cheerful philosophy. If this drought was the worst in more than half a century, its very unusualness is almost complete assurance that not again, in another half century or possibly longer, will another such drought come to this land.

So the lesson of the great drought is the lesson of Johnston and Galveston, and Dayton and San Francisco—those cities, after floods and fire, courageously rebuilt and took up their destinies anew on a greater and grander scale, in supreme confidence that they perhaps never would have another such visitation. So with the drought. The very fact that only one such drought has come in the last fifty years or more is a good assurance that no more such droughts may be expected—at least in this generation.

So it is well for the whole country to take the cheerful view—and repair as quickly as possible the damage of the great drought and to go on in full faith that the God of Nature will send the rain and the snow in due season and that all parts of this land normally will continue to produce abundantly and to provide for all the needs of this great people.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

CHEER UP

Where are the poets whose tragical choruses
Declare we have fallen on terrible times?
Most of them thumping their ragged thesauruses
In search of depressing and downhearted rhymes.
Who are the prophets who cry that rascality
Is driving this wicked old world to its doom?
Most of them people of feeble mentality
And lacking in grit, it is safe to assume.

Supposing that money is growing in rarity
And it costs a lot more for our food and our fun,
We cannot forever be lapped in prosperity,
And the world rolls around as it always has done.
Our granddads, who battled with sinister savages,
And far through the wilderness hewed out their way Through the heat of July and the blizzard's fierce ravages Would think it was swell to be living today.

We have been on a spree, and we've now got to pay for it,
We are due for a moderate fit of the blues,
But postpone the grouching; this isn't the day for it.
Thank the fates that at present we're little to lose.
Old Adam, committing a fault beyond pardoning,
Had to roam in the wilderness quite a long spell,
It was hard, beyond question, to give up his gardening,
But reports all agree that he did pretty well.

For every mistake there must follow a reckoning,
At present we're bogging along in the ruck,
But the hand of the future is cheerfully beckoning—
There is always an end to a run of bad luck.
Our coffers, now empty, will presently fill again
But though they should team with the wealth of the Inds
We know that we'd fall to work with a will again
And throw every cent they contained to the winds.

The "Hoover Plan" For Keeping Business ProsperousBy WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

What has become of the "Hoover Plan" for preventing business depressions through the expansion of public works?
The very first economic pronouncement made by Mr. Hoover after his election was in favor of that policy.

On November 11, 1928, President Coolidge sent a telegram to Governor Ralph O. Brewster of Maine. In this telegram, he requested the Governor to ask the co-operation of all the States with the Federal Government in planning ahead for the expansion of public works when a business depression should threaten.
Governor Brewster presented the plan in detail to the annual conference of Governors in New Orleans.

Almost without exception, the Governors approved the proposal and offered their aid. Almost without exception, the press of the country enthusiastically endorsed the policy.

On the same day, in the same city, the project was fully presented to the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor. The endorsement of the convention was unanimous.

President Hoover followed this up by declaring, in one campaign speech after another, that the project would form an important part of his administration policy.

He failed, however, to make available in advance the necessary plans, specifications, and credit. So, when the stock market crash came, the nation was unprepared to act promptly.

However, as everybody knows, the President did call many men to Washington to assist in putting the plan into operation.
Nearly a year has passed, and we are in the depths of depression.

What happened to the "Hoover Plan"?

Pop was smoking to himself and ma sed, Willyum, do you know that grandchild of ours is giving all the shines and earmarks of being a natural born actor?

Ask him to send us a couple of complimentary tickets for his first show, pop sed, and ma sed, That looking rather ahead into the future, but just a same I wouldn't be a bit surprised if he turned out to be a prominent actor. Its too soon to tell much about his voice, although I must say he cries with grate power and variety, but at least he has a positively uncanny gift for facial expression. He was taking his bottle this afternoon with a look of the most angelic calm, and I suddenly took it away from him and he didn't seem to care a bit. He was in there would be any change of expression, and bleeve me there was. I wouldn't of believed it possible for such a perfect expression of rage to overspread such little features, but I took the bottle away from him 3 times, and each time his expression was more descriptive of anger than the last. And then I meely pretended to take the bottle away without axually touching it, and low an abedhold his expression was even more wrathful than before, until finally all I had to do was lean over him and say Act mad, baby, and the result would of put a contortionist to shame.
Don't you think that was wonderful? ma sed.

When I was 4 months old I painted a falts mustach on my face with shoe blacking and recited 19 verses of Omar Kyyam, pop sed, and ma sed, O keep quiet, you dont deserve to be a grandfather.
And she started to play solitaire with herself and pop took the band off of his cigar on account of it starting to burn.

Life

THE DECALOGUE OF INTELLIGENCE

One of the most valuable chapters in Walter B. Pitkin's The Psychology of Achievement, to which I referred yesterday, is the chapter on Intelligence and Achievement.

In this chapter, Mr. Pitkin analyzes the role of intelligence in achievement in great detail, but from the chapter there emerges a clear picture of the more general characteristics of the highly intelligent man, and, since we all like to know whether we are as highly intelligent as we hope we are, I think a listing of these characteristics may prove interesting and valuable.

1. The highly intelligent man has a lively curiosity toward many matters; he is not the prisoner of a tiny specialism.

2. The highly intelligent man has a keen desire to investigate personally some of these matters that catch his curiosity.

3. The highly intelligent man habitually analyzes what he thinks about and sees the various factors in a problem or situation in their inter-relations.

4. The highly intelligent man has a fairly active imagination, at least in certain fields.

5. The highly intelligent man's performance is unusually even over long periods; he is not given to fits and starts of skill; he does not deviate much from his usual level of skill.

6. The highly intelligent man has a clear notion of his chief desires and aspirations, and is able, therefore, to concentrate his energies and skill on a dominant interest.

7. The highly intelligent man's memory is better than the average and is a selective memory that retains the things that minister most to his life and work.

8. The highly intelligent man has patience with details, because he has come to understand their importance.

9. The highly intelligent man inclines to have a deeper interest in reflection and observation than in handling things or managing people, although he may be markedly effective in handling things and managing people.

10. The highly intelligent man appraises himself modestly, sometimes too modestly, but at least he is free from the poison of the egotist.

Here are ten good standards by which to judge our judgments of ourselves.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE PARTY

It is necessary that every child feel himself the head of the house now and then. Mental health requires that one feel important, highly important, now and again.
This feeling stimulates health and growth follows. It gives the child who cannot shine of his own light a chance to do so in another way, that of the admiration and love of the family. Hence the necessity for the birthday party.

On that day the child is to feel himself the center of interest. Life revolves around him for that one high day. He chooses the meals, he chooses the sort of celebration it is to be. The party is the high spot of the day and no matter how poor you may feel you can make it a gala occasion.

The birthday child is to invite the guests. No matter how queer his choice let him have his way.
"I want Meanie Pursey," said the little host to his astonished mother.
boy who makes fun of you all the time?

"What? You don't mean that big time? Takes your things and mocks you? Surely you don't want him?
He's too big for your party. And anyway he won't come."

"Yes he will. And I want him.
I just want to show him that I can have something without his saying, the big stiff."

Invite Meanie Pursey if necessary. He probably won't come but the sense of satisfaction is strong in the host. He had the power to invite the old Meanie anyhow.
That's something.

Let the child choose the games and help him out. If the party can play out of doors so much the better but be on hand to arrange the games and referee them. Keep things as smooth as you can and let the fun run high. Don't see everything. If the host pushes Meanie over the edge of the porch don't mind it. It is all part of the game. This is the host's day and it pleases him to show Meanie something let him alone. It won't go far and you can tell him how wrong it was after the party. Meanies has to be on his good behavior anyway.

Try not to make the party formal in any way. Children are very unhappy when they have to be polite and do things according to rule.
Especially when the rules are all grown up and beyond the comprehension of little folk. Don't, unless you want to spoil the party, insist upon the host's standing at the entrance and welcoming everybody with a cordial shake of the hand, and "So glad to see you." Do the welcoming yourself and don't be shocked when the host says, "What did you bring me?"

Let the child sit at the head of the table. Let him choose the children who are to sit on either side of him. Let him light the candles, blow them out, and cut the cake, the first cut, you having made the first slice, so things will be easy.
Then cut the rest yourself. Have the refreshments simple so that no child will be made ill. And be sure to have ice cream served in cones.
They like it better that way.

The party is necessary to the growth of the child's personality.
Let it be as high a day as you can and let him shine as brightly as he can. It is his day, rightly his day.

ON THE SIDELINES

Which may or may not be in accord with the views of The Register

By Horace McPhee

DESPERATE ONION GROW-ERS.—The onion growers of the territory tributary to the Hungarian city of Mako are, or seem to be, growing desperate.

Government officials of Mako are advised that the onion farmers of Mako, whose product is famous all over Europe, have taken a pledge not to shave their beards until the government grants them cheaper railroad rates and an agricultural credit. These are needed, the onion growers, assert, to offset over production by enabling them to compete with Russian onions, which have been dumped on the market recently throughout Europe.

MAIL TOO SLOW.—In an address before a bankers' convention held in New Orleans, a prominent southern banker spoke.
The greatest need of the hour, he said, is for people to learn to live within their incomes and to pay their debts.

And now if the gentleman will kindly write this column a brief statement of the modus operandi of doing these two things, the information will be sincerely welcomed by this writer, and by him passed on to all and sundry unto whom these lines shall come.

P. S.—Upon second thought: Do not write; telegraph.

ORDER YOURS NOW.—Good news for those of us who love the radio as much, if not more,
as we love the saxophone.

At a recent radio exhibition in London a nifty little pocket set was shown, with a loud speaker that can be fitted into the hat.

CALIFORNIA OF COURSE.— Foreign grown apples have,
for the first time, made their appearance in Switzerland. They are of the Gravenstein variety, and, yes, you have guessed it,
were grown in California!
